ROGERS TALKS ON ROOSEVELT IN ROLE OF REAL POLITICIAN

(Special To The News)

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 3.—Al Smith unanimously nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt today for governor of New York.

Roosevelt will be remembered as the man that any time as many as three persons met, either in conference or convention, he would arise and nominate Al Smith for president.

You could just wake him in the middle of the night and he would start to nominating Al. His nominating days over he is now going to take up politics seriously.

He is a Roosevelt by blood, but a namesake politically.

If he had retained his splendid qualities and stayed with the Republican end of the family he would have been president, but I doubt if he could have retained those qualities and been Republican.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Statement by City Commissioner Clayton B. Reeves at city hall yesterday to the effect that work should be pushed on the task of clearing away the debris of the First U. P. church, destroyed by fire last New Years eve is one that is surely approved by Pa Newc and other New Castle citizens. There has been an abundance of time to have the debris cleared up.

While Halloween comes the last day of the present month, New Castle juveniles must remember that there is no license to start the celebration now and continue it through the entire month. Reserve your Hallowe'en pranks until the proper night.

Here we are again—Reminding you that your last chance to register for the coming November election is Saturday, October 6.

Tomorrow will start the siege at The News office with world's series baseball for this fall. The sidewalk is partly blocked by the platform and scoreboard in front of The News office. Yesterday persons had to make a slight detour around when the workmen were erecting the sign. If there is as much interest in the series as in former years there will needs be a detour clear away from Mercer street when the crowds gather to watch the plays on the board.

There is a keen situation down at the Y. M. C. A. for the mothers who get gray watching their fast growing boys. All day long for 15 cents the boy is taken care of, given his lunch, taken on a hike, then gets into the football game free. If that isn't a genuine, died in the wool bargain, Pa Newc doesn't know what is.

Speaking of the Y. M. C. A. remind Pa Newc that the boys division want to thank Ralph Gardner for the free tickets which he gave to all of the boys in the boys department for Saturday's game. The youngsters appreciated it and ask that Pa Newc say "thank you" through the columns of this paper.

Local men who own the Porto Rico plantation which was once something better than it is now previous to the hurricane, have started to rebuild the entire works. A lot of fruit was lost and of course the buildings were about a total wreck. Trees in Porto Rico are the kind that when they blow over you just stick 'em back in the ground again and all is well. Not so bad.

Pupils of the county schools will get another holiday for an entire week. This coming week the county institute for teachers will take place and there will be no school sessions during the week. It is said that the children think institute is a fine thing for the teachers.

Street car tracks will be missing from the new concrete Ellwood road at East Washington street extension as the car leaves the brick paved city limits for the park entrance. It is being shoved over to one side thus

ALL-NIGHT LINE WILL BE MISSING

Expect Crowd Of Close To 80,000 To Attend Opening Battle

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Seizing their last opportunity to practice before the big show starts tomorrow, the Cardinals and Yankees were scheduled to take hard workouts on the greensward at Yankee Stadium today. To date Manager Huggins of the Yanks has prescribed merely perfunctory practice for his crippled players, being unwilling to risk a further epidemic of injuries, and the Cards have shown little more activity.

While a few hardy souls are expected to start standing in line this evening to obtain choice seats on general admission tickets, just to keep up the good old traditions, there will be no necessity for an overnight wait in New York this year. The enlarged

NEARLY MILLION AND HALF TAX ALREADY PAID HERE

One million three hundred and fifty one thousand dollars city and school tax have been paid into the treasury of the city, according to Lewis McClung, city treasurer, for this year.

Of the sum $577,000, represents the city tax and $774,000, school tax.

The city tax became delinquent July 1 and a penalty of one percent for each month has been provided.

On school tax after October 1, five percent has been added as a penalty for delinquency in payment.

Old Fire Bell To Be Removed

In Service For Over 40 Years, Will Be Torn Down Since Company's Move

For 40 years or more the old fire bell in the tower of the fire department building on East street tolled out a warning of fire. Forty years is a long time, and within a few weeks it will be removed.

It will be removed, because now, since the Central Fire department has been moved to its new home on South Jefferson street there is no need for it. Ever since the move was made the old bell has been dumb.

Now the down town section of this city is warned of fire by the department whistle, which is located at the plant of the Carnegie Steel company.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The new brown derby which Governor Al Smith bought in Rochester to replace the one he "swapped" for a new dog in Milwaukee was parked today on the familiar hall rack of the executive mansion in Albany.

It will remain there until next Monday when, barring upsets by the National committee, the Democratic nominee will take to the road again—going this time into the border states that are considered doubtful, if not actually inimical to his candidacy. Governor Smith has finished with the West. Win, lose or draw in November, he has made his last appearance in the corn and wheat country

Hoover Approves New York Rally Plans By G. O. P.

Tremendous Political Effort Under Way In New York State By Republicans

NATIONAL HOOK-UP TO CARRY MESSAGES

Sharing Spotlight With Hoover Will Be Charles Evans Hughes

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—With hopes of insuring a Republican victory in the Empire state by one tremendous political effort, Herbert Hoover today approved tentative plans for the monster Republican rally in New York City on October 22.

Charles Evans Hughes, standard-bearer in 1916, will share the spotlight with Hoover at the nominee's personal invitation. Both Hoover and Hughes will address the gathering in Madison Square Garden and a national hookup of broadcasting stations will carry their speeches to every corner of the country. Under the plans, which met Hoover's approval, the rally will be one of the greatest political gatherings ever held in America.

Notables to Speak.

Albert Ottinger, Republican nominee for governor, and former Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton, the party choice for the senate, will speak from the same platform with Hoover and Hughes, under present plans. An effort is being made to get Elihu Root, the "grand old man" of the Republican party, to preside at the meeting or at least participate in it. Edmund Machold, state chairman, probably will introduce Hoover.

The Republican nominee will remain in New York City over night in order to confer with state and county leaders the next forenoon. He will return to Washington after these conferences. So much importance is attached to this rally by the Hoover strategists that the national radio hookup will be employed for two hours during the evening, making it the greatest use of the radio by the Republicans since Hoover's acceptance speech was broadcast.

Hoover meanwhile studied for his invasion of New England, to speak in Boston October 15. The nominee probably will leave here last the Sunday night preceding, going direct to Boston. Following his appearance in Boston, the nominee probably will re-

Gets Three Months For Forging Check

Forger Signs Name Of William H. Northcote Of Jackson Center

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3.—Jesse Joseph Phillips, 40, today faced a three months jail term, being sentenced by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, when he pleaded guilty to forging the name William H. Northcote of Jackson Center, Mercer county, to a $10 United States treasury check, and passing it.

The check was for expenses incurred in cleanup operations of corn borer eradication, Phillips said. He said he believed himself entitled to the compensation as he had done the work while in the employ of Northcote.

After passing the check he went to Jackson, Ky., and when government officials went there to arrest him, they alleged they were attacked by Phillip's sister and brother-in-law, the pair being arrested and committed to jail. Phillips has been in jail three months.

New Castle News Fat Man Loses Two Pounds Trying Out Y Reducing Program

To my fellow fat men, greeting: This is to advise you that I have discovered just the thing for reduction of the human race and that, if the directions are followed, there's little doubt in my mind, that the human race will become more slender and graceful and probably fewer in numbers. I'll tell you all about it from time to time, and no joking friends, it's just the best thing I've found to date. Its name is exercise.

Yours truly,
A. FAT-I-GUED REDUCER
Of The News.

Down at the Young Men's Christian Association, you'll find a genial extremely healthy looking chap named Kirker. Walter most of the fellows call him. He's running a fat reducing proposition there and if it don't work, it's not because you don't work while that Kirker fellow is issuing the instructions.

Form Reducers

I was there among others at the first session of this source of perpetual youth and graceful form and what amused me most, until I saw my own form in the glass, was the extreme rotundity of the major portion of the class. Then I concluded that perhaps it wasn't such a joke after all.

Now, of course, some of you readers have already formed the opinion that the members of the class are all ancient, worn out specimens of the human race. They're there in all ages and sizes, but, believe me or not, they're real fellows, with that characteristic good humor that goes with excessive avoirdupoise.

As a ringmaster, that fellow Kirker is a genius and if you could have seen how he had that group of fat men performing before their first lesson was near finished, you too, would have had something to laugh about.

Start Big Job

First thing he did, was to have us form in a circle and then started one of those things (they call them medicine balls) going the rounds with instructions to sock the other fellow

Plan Pushing Of Naval Expansion Bill In Congress

Strong Movement Started For Passage Of $274,000, 000 Naval Bill

MUST MAINTAIN PREPAREDNESS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—A strong movement for passage of the $274,000,000 naval expansion bill will be the answer of backers of naval preparedness to the proposed British-Franco naval treaty, Rep. Fred A. Britten (R) of Illinois, chairman of the House Naval Affairs committee and a leader of the "Big Navy Bloc," predicted today.

The $274,000,000 bill, providing for 15 new cruisers and one air-craft carrier in three years, has already passed the House and is pending in the Senate. Britten predicted not only passage of the authorization measure by the Senate but appropriations bills as well to launch the actual building of the ships.

The Wilbur 20-year naval expansion program, involving expenditure of more than $3,000,000,000 probably will be dropped, Britten said.

READY TO PRESENT 1928 WORLDS' SERIES AT NEWS

If the Yankees and the Cardinals are as ready for the world series as The New Castle News is to handle it, there will be no delay. The huge Playograph board is in position, the mechanism is tested, the public address system is installed, the special telegraph wire has been installed and every man on the staff knows his job.

To give the baseball fans the very best service for the series is costing The News considerable money and requires five men to handle all the equipment. One man handles the telegraph wire, one handles the public address system, two handle the Playograph board and one other man acts as laison officer between the various points.

The News will show each game as it is played, with the exception of any Sunday games. Every fan who is interested in seeing and hearing the game as it is played, is invited to come down in front of The News office and enjoy the sport as the guest of The New Castle News. Game starts at 1:30 New Castle time.

DOUBLE CEREMONY IS PERFORMED

International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, Oct. 3.—A romance which began while Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, was battering his way to the top of the prize ring lists culminated here today when he was married to a $50,000,000 American heiress, Miss Josephine ("Polly") Lauder.

Tunney had been attempting to keep his marriage plans secret, allowing the report to go forth that he would be married at Sorrento. Following the arrival of Miss Lauder at Naples it was decided to have the nuptials performed here. Tunney is a Catholic, while Miss Lauder is a Protestant. It was arranged to have a double ceremony, one civil and the other religious.

Double Ceremony

The former was conducted by Registrar Commendatore Broferrio, who wore a tri-colored sash bound round his waist. He read aloud the names and ages of the bride and groom and then asked if anyone present had any objection to the nuptials. Quite naturally no one had. Then the official read the ritual from the civil code, including the paragraphs relating to the

Channel Lines To Be Established In Shenango River

Board Will Meet In New Castle On October 10 For Hearing

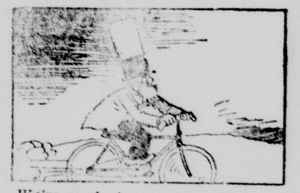

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG October 3.—The Water and Power Resources Board has scheduled a hearing in New Castle for October 10 in regard to the establishment of a channel line in the Shenango river. The session will open at 10 o'clock in the city council chamber.

The hearing is to be held to hear objections to the plan of establishing the channel lines in the stream. Engineers of the board have made surveys of the river in the New Castle territory. At no point along the stream are the lines narrower than 250 feet.

After the channel lines are established encroachment in the stream beyond the designations is prohibition. This step is taken to reduce the danger of heavy losses by floods.

We're ready to go, when the umpire is, wire and speaker and board, and you'll want to be there when the games are on, to see how the runs are scored. Its considerable trouble and also expense, but its worth it to get you the score and today the equipment is being tried out, and the weather is seventy-four. Lock your offices up and come down to the games, you're invited as guests of The News, come down and see Ruth as he slams a home run, or come down and see St. Louis lose. No matter who wins you can witness the games, and it won't cost a dime for your seat, let's hope that the weather is rainless at least, and perhaps we can get you some heat.

Judge Hildebrand Will Preside At Disbarment Trial

Local Judge Is Summoned To Beaver To Hear Case Against Attorney Helbling

Judge R. L. Hildebrand is in Beaver today where he was called by Judges Frank E. Reader aid William A. McConnell to try the case of A. G. Helbling a Beaver county attorney against whom disbarment proceedings have been brought by members of the Beaver County Bar association.

It is claimed that Attorney Helbling has been guilty of misconduct and unethical practices. As the Beaver county judges did not want to hear a case against a member of their own bar they secured the services of Judge Hildebrand.

The prosecution committee of the Beaver Bar association consists of Judge George A. Baldwin, Joseph Knox Stone, Esq., aid Harold F. Reed, Esq.

Helbling is alleged by this committee to have intimated to clients that for a consideration he could sidetrack the wheels of justice in the county courts and prevent jail sentences in criminal cases.

Helbling is represented by Ex-Judge Richard S. Holt and is said to have presented certain affidavits to the court to show his practice was above board in the instances cited by the prosecution.

At the time of the filing of the petition of the Bar association, Holt asked the court to discharge the rule because of the questionable reputation of witnesses upon whom the prosecution is said to have depended for the allegations which they propose to prove. Helbling also said at the time that the whole affair was a move of political enemies to injure him over political differences.

People who shivered about the streets in overcoats are now walking the same paths without coats. The warm stretch of weather we are having comes as a distinct relief to the cold spell and another proof that if you don't worry why old man weather will take care of you.

Returns from one precinct in the presidential election were made known today, or rather the returns from a straw vote taken at the New Castle fair. One of the voting machines, similar to those used in other states was on exhibition and visitors invited to cast their vote for president. The total showed 526 for Hoover and 73 for Smith. This is the first straw vote taken in Lawrence county, at least one of any size.

The farm-relief issue lies dormant, and yet you see many a poor husbandman still using a 1928 model.

HOOVER APPROVES NEW YORK RALLY PLANS BY G. O. P.

turn to Washington by way of Springfield, Mass., and Hartford, Conn., with stops in both cities.

To Confer With Leaders.

Hoover has decided to confer with Connecticut leaders on this trip to New England. He probably will meet many of the Rhode Island leaders at the same time. At least, dozens of the Republican chieftains from both states will be invited aboard his train as he makes the return trip.

The nominee was pleased today with two reports. First, he was told by Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania that the Keystone state was "safely" Republican. Second, he was told by western managers over the telephone that Senator William E. Borah of Idaho has been a "sensational success" in stumping the middle west for him in the wake of Governor Alfred E. Smith's tour. Borah will come to Washington early next week to confer with the nominee and to report the progress of the campaign in the corn belt.

Senator Reed meanwhile told newspapermen that Hoover's election was a "certainty".

"There is work indeed, and hard work, along the eastern coast and in Wisconsin," said Reed. "Mr. Hoover though can win even if he loses all the doubtful states. I expect his majority to be greater even than that given President Coolidge."

"Is Pennsylvania safely Republican?" he was asked.

"Absolutely," Reed replied.

duties and obligations of married persons.

"Do you take this young woman to be your lawfully wedded wife?" asked the registrar, turning to Tunney.

The former pugilist replied in a firm, clear voice:

"I do."

Then the official turned to Miss Lauder with the question:

"Do you take this man to be your lawfully wedded husband?" Miss Lauder answered:

"I do."

The bride gazed at the official while she spoke. Meanwhile Tunney, from his superior height, looked with fond eyes upon her.

After the rest of the ritual had been followed the bride, groom and official witnesses signed the official register. This being a special occasion, the register was signed with a gold pen which Signor Brofferio presented to the couple at the conclusion of the rites.

The official shook hands with the bride and groom and made a short speech, wishing them a long, happy and prosperous married life together.

Dr. Weekes, who crossed with the Lauder party, acted as best man. Mrs. Edwin Dewing, sister of Miss Lauder was matron of honor.

Bride Looks Gorgeous

Miss Lauder wore a gown of light brown champagne effect, made of chiffon and velvet. It was trimmed with pearls. Her slippers were of brown satin. She wore light fawn colored stockings and her headdress consisted of a beautiful string of pearls.

Tunney wore a cutaway coat, striped trousers and white spats.

The matron of honor wore a Burgundy red dress and carried a large bunch of red roses.

Mrs. Lauder, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black and gold and carried a bouquet of orchids.

After the double service a nuptial luncheon of 20 covers was served. The guests included the members of the Lauder party, the American consul, Canadian Vice Consul Jones, Monsignor Breslin and Signor Del Frate.

The rites were commenced at 12:30 in the big double drawing room of the De Russie Hotel, which Tunney engaged immediately after his arrival here last week.

Start on Honeymoon

Even before the ceremonies commenced a powerful motor car, with a full supply of oil and gas, was drawn up in front of the hotel for the quick departure of the bride and groom. They had already made arrangements to speed to Florence as the first stop on the honeymoon, then Milan and then travel through the lake district into Switzerland.

The former pugilist, who is a romanticist at heart, told his friends he believed there was no other place in the world so ideal for a honeymoon as the beautiful country on the frontiers of Italy and Switzerland.

Camera Men Foiled.

ROME, Oct. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney, who were married here this afternoon, left on their honeymoon at 5:30 o'clock amid scenes of excitement precipitated when photographers tried to stop their motor car. Gene and Polly purposely delayed their departure until darkness began to fall to frustrate the army of camera men that had camped all day in and around the Hotel De Russie. They scurried out to their automobile while the photographers surrounded the car, demanding an opportunity to snap some pictures. Tunney was adamant in his refusal. The honeymoon will be spent in northern Italy, Switzerland and France.

stadium will hold more than 81,000 persons, so that all but later comers will be accommodated.

The real rush for seats will prevail in St. Louis, where tens of thousands of fans will battle for the meager allotment of 12,000 general admission tickets. The St. Louis club already has returned 75,000 requests for the well-known coveted pasteboards, according to reports from the Mound City.

Combs in Workout

Earle Combs, Yankee outfielder whose wrist was injured in Detroit, planned to don his uniform today and catch a few flies, but Huggins entertains little hope that the "blue grass kid" will be able to take his place in the center pasture during the series. Hug may use the fleet Kentuckian as a pinch runner, however.

Leo Durocher, the weak-hitting second baseman, who may be called upon to take the injured Lazzeri's place in the New York line-up, surprised all hands by hitting a home run into the bleachers in yesterday's practice.

It is estimated that the players of the winning club will receive $6,000 apiece. The Yanks voted to present a full share to Heimach and Zachary, newcomers, to Coaches Art Fletcher and Charley O'Leary and to the absent Wilcy Moore. Half shares will be given to Pitcher Stan Coveleskie, who was released; Pitcher Al Shealy, recalled from St. Paul; Pitcher Rosy Ryan, another newcomer, and Matty Matthews, bull-pen catcher. Catcher Bill Dickey and Pitcher Archie Campbell, who was sent to St. Paul, will receive $750 each, and Eddie Bennett, the mascot, will get $800.

Fair and warmer, with showers at night, is the weather man's prediction for tomorrow. Thousands of fans are already pouring into the city for the blue ribbon event, with each trainload increasing the harvest of the ticket scalpers.

Rev. S. L. Maxwell Tells Kiwanians Of European Tour

"My European Trip; What I Saw, Where I Saw It, and Why," was Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell's subject for the address he delivered before the members of the Kiwanis club of New Castle in their noon meeting at the Elks club today.

The local Methodist minister just returned recently from an extended trip i n Europe and the Orient with several other local Methodist pastors.

Rev. Maxwell compared the conditions that exist in the countries that he visited, and told why he thought some were headed downward and others upward. "France, in my opinion," said the minister, "is in a rather hopeless state at the present time. It seems as if the people living there have no ambition. You seldom see men whistling on the streets, and the scarcity of smoke in the air indicates that very little industry is carried on. France is completely turning its interest toward the wine industry, and drinkers are numerous. It is my belief that France is between the devil and the deep blue sea at the present."

Maxwell said that Mussolini's progress in Italy is commendable, and that Turkey is making remarkable strides upward. England's condition is almost equally as bad as that of France and to show this, Maxwell pictured a number of instances which showed the influence of the saloon on the city of London.

Firemen To Attend State Convention

Perry McFarland, George Harper and Roy Samuels, all members of the New Castle paid fire department, will leave the city this evening for Uniontown, where they will attend the annual State Firemens' convention.

Wilmer Hawk will accompany the party as a delegate from the hook and ladder company. Chief Charles H. Lynn preceded his men to the convention.

Dr. Womer Attends State Medical Meeting

Dr. W. A. Womer, secretary of the Lawrence County Medical society, is at present in Allentown, Pa., attending the annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Medical society, now in session in that city. He was accompanied by Mrs. Womer and daughter Mary Lou. They will return home the last of the week by way of Philadelphia.

during this campaign. The 6,000 mile trip which the governor completed here last night, represents the Smith bid for the electoral votes west of the Mississippi river. Hereafter the Democratic campaign is to be concentrated in the East and border states.

To Visit Border States

Although Governor Smith's second itinerary is still in the process of formulation, it has been virtually determined that when he leaves Albany again next week, it will be to go into the so-called border states, some of which he must carry in November if his candidacy is to be successful.

A tentative schedule has been arranged which will take him to Baltimore, Raleigh, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Louisville, Ky.; Seddealia, Mo.; possibly Indianapolis, and winding up in Chicago in mid-October. Several other points are under consideration, particularly one in Ohio on the same trip. Three Ohio sites also are under consideration—Cincinnati, Columbus, and Cleveland.

The ultimate decision will be made by Governor Smith himself sometime during the present week. He is running his own campaign, subject to a certain amount of guidance by the National committee experts sitting in New York. They prepare the tentative dates. The governor turns thumbs up or thumbs down on their work.

Nothing Decided

'I'll do the deciding," he said today when questioned about future plans. "Right now nothing has been definitely decided."

It is known, however, that the Governor is determined to go into North Carolina. It is in North Carolina that the opposition to his candidacy has been more pronounced probably than in any other southern state. It is there that the Republicans are striving their utmost to break into the solid south and with characteristic courage, Governor Smith is determined to make an appearance there to fight the opposition on its chosen ground.

There has been some difference of opinion between the schedule-makers over the Missouri date.

Today Governor Smith planned to spend in renewing acquaintance with his numerous menagerie of pets in the back yard of the executive mansion, and if the weather is propitious this afternoon it will see him on the golf links.

One of the most beautiful social events of the autumn season in this city took place Tuesday evening at The Castleton when the New Castle Quota club entertained at an attractively appointed reception and dinner as a courtesy to one of their members and first president of the local organization, Mrs. Elizabeth J. White, recently elected international president of Quota clubs.

Preceding the dinner in the crystal ballroom, an informal reception was held in the parlors. Receiving with Mrs. White were Mrs. Orra Snyder, acting secretary, and Miss Emilie H. Salomon, present president of the New Castle club.

Guests were present from Pittsburgh, Beaver, Butler, Youngstown and Ellwood Quota clubs. Also a number of clubs from this city.

Dinner was served at 7 o'clock with covers arranged for about 100. Baskets of autumn flowers artistically arranged and the club's colors, gold and blue, formed a lovely combination of color. Miss Salomon introduced Dr. Mildred Rogers, who served as toastmistress of the evening.

A beautiful spirit of fellowship prevails among Quotarians, the speaker said. Quota is not a panacea for all the ills of the world, continued Mrs. White, but the position it holds today adds much to brighten the path of those associated with it.

AUTO OUTPUT AT NEW PEAK

AUGUST made automobile history.

The nation's motor car output for that month was 458,429 cars, which established a new record. The record for July is 391,180. More automobiles were manufactured in the United States in August than during the entire year of 1912.

Automobile exports increased in August. This corroborates recent reports of increasing national prosperity, decreasing unemployment and improved economic conditions in Europe.

During the first six months of this year automobiles and their accessories constituted more than one-tenth of the exports of the United States. In that period 194,000 passenger cars and 58,000 trucks and busses were shipped to foreign markets.

The theory that presidential years bring poor business is receiving may jolts this year. Most fatal to the theory is the record of the automobile industry.

Has not the industry learned something this year that will prove highly beneficial to itself and to the nation in future years? Heretofore the industry has regarded an August slump as inevitable, so did nothing to prevent it. Through no fault of its own, perhaps, it has found that August can be made the banner sales month of the year. This suggests the probability that there may have been unnecessary August retrenchment in past years.

WORKING PEOPLE AND THE TARIFF

NONE of us who work day after day spend much time trying to learn about the tariff. The vast majority are not brought up to it, as it means digging into figures, which most of us dislike. We realize vaguely that there is a difference between a high tariff and a low tariff even though we do not know everything relating to the tax on products shipped here from abroad and products shipped from here to other parts of the world.

But this we know and are sure of: We get ten times better wages than many working people abroad and we live infinitely better than they even dream of living.

We know this, too, about the tariff: The pay roll for those of us who work for a living in this country is $600,000,000 a week—think of it, six hundred million dollars. And we know, also that this would not be possible without a Republican protective tariff. But for a protective tariff we would be down to the level of foreign labor and living conditions.

Here is something more we know: Democrats, experimenting with the tariff, cut $100,000,000 a week from the American pay roll, which means the man getting $6 a day slipped back to $3 or $4 a day. The employer could do nothing about it, because he, too, suffered from Democratic tariff reduction. To working people a dollar and a half is a big loss and proves we need Herbert Hoover and a protective tariff so we can go on happily as we are and not as a Democratic tariff would make us—like the working people of foreign countries.

WHICH APPEALS TO YOU?

EVERY time you speak a good word for your town you speak two for yourself, for the home booster is always respected by home lovers.

It's an easy thing to make a nasty remark about your home town, but it is difficult to stop that remark from traveling after it has once been uttered.

The monkey in the jungle swings from limb to limb and from tree to tree at remarkable speed, but the monkey is a snail compared to the caustic remarks and comments of a chronic pessimist.

The moneky does not berate either the limbs or the trees, for they are his home—they mean safety and comfort to him.

The pessimist, however, is not as considerate.

His happiest moments are when he is slamming his home town.

Nothing is right.

None of its numerous citizens possess the ability to perform civic duties in the proper manner.

Other persons are unable to see the glaring defects that are so plain to him.

He lives in darkness and radiates gloom.

He is simply a pessimist, and the work of the pessimist is too often destructive.

But why be a pessimist? Why not an optimist instead?

Pessimism is worse than rheumatism. The one puts a few joints out of proper working order, but the other is a drag to the mind, the body and the soul.

Station yourself on a street corner and watch the people go by for an hour. Ninety-nine out of a hundred will be happy, and cheerful, and contented. They are optimists unawares. The rays of the noonday sun are not brighter or warmer than the smiles upon their lips or the humanity in their hearts.

The hundredth man may be different. He may be the odd sheep in the flock, the cloud that dims the brightness of the community light. He is a pessimist, and he knows it. His soul is shrouded in gloom from which he never seeks to escape. He is a bore ever to himself.

The pessimist is never happy—the optimist is seldom sad.

It is possible to be either, but never both.

Which appeals to you?

It's a used car the day after you get it. But you bought it new, no matter how far the agent had driven it.

Humans are queer, and a lot of one-night hotel guests take a bath just to get their money's worth.

An egoist is a man who talks so much you don't get a chance to strut your stuff.

A Little Politics.
A Real King.
A Rich City.
Pulling a Coolidge.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Dr. Work, who knows this country well, says Hoover will break the solid South, carrying several states there. Mr. Raskob says the Democrats will carry Pennsylvania. You will know in a few weeks.

Wall Street bets even that Gov. Smith will carry New York. Recently the "Street" bet two to one on Smith. What changed Wall Street's mind is not known. Perhaps Hoover backers have more money to bet, and are betting it.

Next Sunday 1,000 Chicago churches will pray for divine guidance in the coming election.

Chicago Church Federation is worrying about the local election.

Results, doubtless, will show whether or not Providence refuses to interfere in political matters, as some of the churches refuse.

King Zogu of Albania pulled down the flag of the republic and made himself king. A stalwart Albanian of the old kind that used to chase travelers with bear hounds, Zogu has modern ways, with a neat little moustache, clipped on both sides in the modern fashion, and more medals than Marshal Foch ever had.

Some asked, will Zogu be a real king? But no more doubt. On Sunday he arrested 200 conspirators against his throne, hanged 11 and will probably hang more.

You understand how New York City can supply rich patronage to several generations of active politicians when you consider the city's wealth.

This year taxable values are increased by one billion four hundred and ninety-one millions of dollars.

Taxable property, a year ago, was taxed at sixteen billion, one hundred and fifty-three millions. This year the figure is raised to eighteen billion four hundred and forty-eight millions. Those are large figures, and will be bigger.

If the 1928 assessment figures included properties exempt from taxation for various reasons the total would be three billions more.

Much of the exempt property is church property. If Mayor Walker's suggestion about taxing certain church properties were carried out, city income would be even bigger.

Great is the power of silence. The German proverb has it. "Talking is silver, silence is gold."

Will Rogers, praising Herbert Hoover for paying no attention to Democratic attacks, says, "'Herb' won't answer. He is pulling a Coolidge, and is getting the Democrats' goat." You may not know that "to pull a Coolidge" means to say little.

Eight thousand bankers in Philadelphia discussing national welfare and possibilities of increasing bank dividends warn against inflation, say brokers' loans are too high and the Federal Reserve should "act as a brake on speculation."

The Federal Reserve has done fairly well. It hasn't diminished speculation any, but banks are able to charge 10 per cent for call loans, Monday, on absolutely good security, and 7 1-2 per cent for first-class commercial loans.

That provides a good imitation of a pawnshop and a banker's happy hunting ground.

Will our bankers explain how other countries manage? This country, gigantically rich, was able to lend five thousand million dollars to France. France, after a long war is poor, her money worth only 20 cents on the dollar.

But in Monday's New York Times you read, "The Paris money market has grown tighter on the approach of month-end payments. Call money rates remain at 2 3-4 per cent.

"Outside discounts steadied during the week from 3 1-4 to 3 3-8 per cent. Nevertheless, the money market is considered general satisfactory."

No wonder.

Mr. De Valera, leader of irreconcilable Irish Republicans, warns us that Britain is arming Irish ports to fight the United States. Those ports will be used by Britain as a base for attack on American commerce.

That's important news, especially as there isn't much American commerce afloat. Hardly enough, as the late Frank Munsey said, "to grease a fly's ear".

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SOUTH POLE CLIMATE.

During the latest Florida hurricane the velocity of the wind was estimated "unofficially" at seventy-five miles an hour—when it hit Fort Lauderdale

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer states that the average wind velocity at the South Pole tested every day for a whole year was fifty miles an hour.

On somewhat breezy days the wind averaged 107 miles an hour. The velocity of single gusts rose to 180 miles an hour—which makes a Florida hurricane seem like a calm day.

Stefansson says the temperature does not go below 60 degrees under zero at the North Pole, but the thermometer drops below 120 degrees at the South Pole.

It will be summer at the South Pole when Commander Byrd's Expedition reaches the Antarctic Circle, but what a summer! A breeze of 107 miles per hour will test the best of air ships.

The Commander has picked out one grand place to spend a summer.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:40. Sun rises tomorrow 6:00.

We read that a woman's costume, aside from the shoes can be sent by mail for four cents. Well, that's one reduction in the cost of living anyhow.

Some of the wets are now trying to use the argument that the Republican candidate should be defeated because the Republicans have been endeavoring to enforce the prohibition law. That's a mighty poor argument to use to try to elect Mr. Smith.

At a party a few nights ago we won the booby prize. It was a campaign button of Governor Smith. We are going to keep it to remember the campaign by.

Age has compensations. You can park in a closer place when the car gets so old another dent doesn't matter.

Normalcy Psalm

Al Smith is my sheperd.
And I will be in want.
He will make me lie down on the park benches,
He will leadeth me by the free soup houses,
He restoreth my doubt in the Democratic party,
He will leadeth me in the path of destruction for the party sake.
Yea, though I will walk thru the valley of starvation,
I do fear evil for Al I know.
Thou will be against me,
Thou profiteers frighten me,
Thou perpareth a reduction in my wages before me, in the presence of mine enemies thou anointest my wages with taxes,
I fear my expenses will over-run my income.
Surely poverty and unemployment will follow me all thru the days of Al Smith's administration and I shall dwell in a rented house for ever.

Somhe one asked us if it is a crime to play golf on Sunday. It is our opinion that the way some people play it is a crime any day in the week.

Women are more active in the presidential campaign than men are for some reason or other. Election day is only about a month away and not a man has opened his face in this county for either candidate in the way of a political oration.

Listening to the Sunday sermon always makes a man feel good.

No Rest

A man whose whole life had been spent in active business passed to the spirit world.

On arriving there he thought, "Now for some rest and perfect peace."

After quite a short time a spirit tapped him on the shoulder and said, "Excuse me, sir; you are wanted on the ouija board."

It quite often happens in elections that the very thing that one thinks is impossible, happens. And it is the thing not wanted by the majority of the people, strange as that may seem.

A doctor says that patent medicine advertising helps the doctors. People who think they have the symptoms they read of go to the doctors instead of buying the medicines, thus making business for the doctors. Prohibition also helps a lot of doctors.

While modern women's fashions are brief they cover the subject.

There is no denying Gov. Smith or any other Democrat or any other party man the right to aspire to the office of president of the United States and by the same token any one has the right to keep them from the office by all decent methods. We do not believe in slandering any candidate.

Well, so far no woman has ever tried to conduct a humorous column in a newspaper. They confine their efforts to fashions and household hints. That's often funny enough.

There are half a dozen or so men running for president of the United States. Can you name em right now. Of course you can only name two of them.

President Coolidge got off the front page all at once.

Jazz is blamed for a lot of things. It chased corsets and starched underware. It shortened skirts and short hair and given us cigarettes and bare knees. Oh wham de doodle wham!

America, if you have not registered do so next Saturday, the last day or you will not get to vote at the most important election ever held in the United States. Do your duty as a citizen.

The wet and dry stuff in politics, and that seems to be the place it will be, is going to make a lot of trouble in this country before it is finally settled or something. We do not like the idea of a candidate's qualifications being just dry and nothing else. Or wet either for that matter and nothing else.

Gov. Smith has nine dogs. Bow wow!

Opinion is expressed that the American family is sound as ever. Indeed, with radios, player-pianos, talking-machines and saxophones the American family seems to be largely sound.

The Community Chest drive for 1928 is being organized, and there will be the usual number of I. G. pledges turned in. I. G. means Indian Giver, whose name on a pledge don't mean anything.

At a nurses' hospital graduation recently there were nine to be graduated. The man to whose lot it fell to introduce the principal speaker grew eloquent and said: "My friend has wooed all nine muses." When he was quoted in the newspaper, the story said, "My friends has wooed all nine nurses."

"No passage at all, none whatever," replied the maid. "It just don't take much to make me laugh."

TEMPTATION

The wind was from the west when the fish will bite the best,
And the blue was in the lovely August sky,
And something whispered low: "It's a perfect day to go.
You could catch a mess for supper if you'd try."

The ink was in the pen, there was paper in the den,
There was waiting work I'd promised long to do,
And something sharply said: "You should labor here instead.
You'll have time to go out fishing when you're through."

Down the sky a cloud of gray, fully fifty miles away
And no larger than a patchwork counterpane,
Said: "Today the time is right for the small mouthed bass to bite,
Tomorrow I may settle in to rain."

Thus I watch the sky above, torn twixt duty and my love,
And I heard the west wind calling out my name,
So I tossed aside my pen and went fishing there and then—
And I rather fancy you'd have done the same.

THE GOLDEN RULE—

Is glibly quoted by some men with a lot of brass.

Is what we want other men to be guided by as they deal with us.

Is freely advocated and occasionally put into operation.

Is a good example of a rule that will work both ways.

Is God's measure for a square deal.

Is the only basis upon which prosperity ever becomes permanent.

Is one point in religion that men seldom debate.

No Party Lines In Denouncing Of Mrs. Willebrandt's Activities

Assistant Attorney General Has Some Champions, But Press Generally Objects Emphatically To Her Campaign Methods

Republicans, Democrats and Independents of the press vie with each other in roundly denouncing the campaign activities of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general, whose addresses to religious organizations and attacks on the Democratic nominee have made her a storm center in the presidential campaign. But Mrs. Willebrandt is not wholly without champions.

For instance, the ROCHESTER DEMOCRAT AND CHRONICLE (Rep.) takes the position: "Governor Smith deliberately chose to flout that portion of the electorate that regards prohibition as its special trust. He did this on the obvious gamble of winning another portion of the electorate that wants to see prohibition destroyed. His action, now, in denouncing friends of prohibition for speaking their minds, suggests that he realizes he has made a wrong gamble is unwilling to accept the responsibility for the consequences."

Similarly the MORGANTOWN NEW DOMINION (Ind.) says: "We resent the unfairness and injustice of the attack on this noble, conscientious, law-enforcing officer of our government, not only by Governor Smith, but by many newspapers both Democratic and Republican, just as much as we do those directed against Governor Smith."

Most of those who comment are by no means so sympathetic, however. Such a staunch Republican spokesman as the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR speaks of the assistant attorney general as "the apparently irrepressible Mabel Walker Willebrandt," while the COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL (Rep.) declares "she is most certainly injuring the political cause she is trying to promote" and suggests that "a word from President Coolidge or Mr. Hoover would settle her." "Should Mrs. Willebrandt be called out of the campaign against the Democratic nominees by the Republican national committee," remarks the MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL (Dem.), "friends of those nominees will be sorely disappointed. For Mrs. Willebrandt is doing anything else than harm to the Democratic candidates." The SYRACUSE HERALD (Ind.) observes that "the peculiar and unprecedented character of her present campaign is an enterprise which the Republican national committee runs desperate risks in approving and shouldering."

"The campaign committee will have difficulty in escaping the harmful effects of Mrs. Willebrandt's unwise utterances," in the judgment of the HERALD of WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE (Ind.), while the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER (Ind. Dem.) says as to a speech in Ohio: "To climax her misrepresentations, she said that 'Mr. Smith as governor of New York has four times taken an oath to support the constitution of the United States and he has four times disregarded that oath.' Do Candidate Hoover and Chairman Work sanction this reckless haranguing on the part of a member of the Coolidge administration?"

"The Republican national committee has assumed a heavy responsibility," states the SPRINGFIELD UNION (Rep.) with, however, the contention that "she will be rejected as a spokesman of the party by thousands throughout the country." The SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) advises that "in the long run, Hoover will suffer more than Smith, if Mrs. Willebrandt continues to act without discretion." The PORTSMOUTH DAILY TIMES (Dem.) satirically remarks: "Mr. Hoover, of course, knows nothing about her at all."

Her plea on moral grounds stirs other critics. "Prohibition is, of course, not the whole of morality," suggests the DAYTON DAILY NEWS (Ind. Dem.). "None of the Ten Commandments, as we remember, refers to prohibition. But there is a commandment which says, 'Thou shalt not steal.'" The NEWARK EVENING NEWS (Ind.) asks, "What explains the state of mind that strains at a Democratic gnat and swallows a Republican camel?", and that paper points out that "in her efforts to make this a virtuous campaign, Mrs. Willebrandt forgets a number of things of which Governor Smith reminded the country in his speech at Helena."

"Corruption in government must be something very like a moral issue," says the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL (Ind.), with the further suggestion that "Mrs. Willebrandt has not talked about that". The LYNCHBURG NEWS (Dem.) condemns "the very thought of this associate of and defender of Harry Daugherty, this politician using high federal office for partisan political purposes, this attorney who has so notoriously failed in the performance of her duties in connection with prohibition, talking of 'morality'."

The obligation of office is the subject of some extended discussion. The ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS (Ind. Dem.) comments "Mrs. Willebrandt speaks, not as an individual, nor as a temperance crusader, nor as a traveling evangelist, but as an assistant attorney general of the United States. If the Coolidge administration permits her to proceed, the country can only conclude that Mr. Coolidge approves of her methods." The PHILADELPHIA RECORD (Ind. Dem.) holds that "she comes under the ban of the federal law that prohibits the participation of government employes in active political work."

Mrs. Willebrand's doings are classed by the CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE (Rep.) as "an instance of pernicious political activity which it would be hard to equal. The only adequate squaring of this episode," continues the TRIBUNE, "would be the removal of this offender from office. Government silence condones and supports it." The OMAHA WORLD-HERALD (Ind.) takes the same view and adds: "So, too, does the silence of Mr. Hoover. Will the American people likewise condone and support it?"

"Mr. Hoover is in a position to control the actions of Mrs. Willebrandt," insists the NEW YORK WORLD (Ind.). "Without the slightest question, he has the power to dissociate her absolutely from his campaign," the World asserts. "The Republican party has the power to dismiss her from office."

"The News cannot condone Mrs. Willebrandt's campaign methods," concludes the CLEVELAND NEWS (Ind. Rep.). "It does not propose to debate with her over her propaganda. This newspaper simply does not believe she has any place on the stump. It suggests that the Republican national committee recall her before any more bitterness is aroused, and before irreparable damage to the Hoover cause may result."

Dr. Crane's Editorial

SOLITUDE

The world is too much with us, says Wordsworth.

We must always have something going on to divert us.

We must have newspapers, company, clubs, and shows.

We are diverted to death, at least to a frazzle.

If we would only get away sometimes occasionally by ourselves and loaf and invite our souls it would do us good.

Spend an hour in thoughtful meditation alone, said Carlyle, and see how much nonsense will be cleaned out of you.

Only from the point of view of solitude can we get the right perspective, see what things are worth while and what things do not matter.

Most of the time we are too close to things. Let us retreat into the silence.

There are mighty few who know how to be alone.

And yet it is a most useful accomplishment. It would save us many a bitter hour and many a foolish deed if we understood it.

Solitude is one of the terrors of the world. Men in solitary confinement go mad. Left to ourselves we get bored, wretched, desperate. We are afraid to sleep in an empty house. Silence scares us. Even contention and disagreeable people are better than peace and quite with loneliness.

But, like most other bugaboos that frighten us with their shadows, solitude is not all bad when you go right up to it and look it in the face.

Let us, therefore, get a full face view of solitude, dismiss our panic fears and see what it is made of. Solitude consists of me and myself. The only reason it alarms me is because myself is the one thing I am not familiar with—the one thing I do not study, examine and try. Hence, when we are left alone with it we want to scream and run.

The way to overcome this fear is to practice being alone. Everybody ought to have some time of the day when he is absolutely by himself. Then he should look into his heart and his mind and get used to their contents.

It is amazing what an hour of utter silence and isolation will do for us if we seek it and endeavor to use it. At first we will be overwhelmed, perhaps, by the doubts, mysteries and questionings that arise, and will be tempted to flee for relief to any kind of companionship; men, women or books. But if we persist and just let the mind and heart boil over until they get settled by and by, there will come to us a certain quiet and contentment we find in no other way.

I am the only person I cannot get away from. It stands me instead to make myself as agreeable as possible. It is a false and foolish humility that says, "I hate myself. I know I am no good," and all that. For we hate ourselves just as we hate others, because we are not acquainted. "Don't introduce me to that man," said Sidney Smith. "I feel it my duty to hate him, and you can't hate a man when you know him."

Tomorrow—World Peace.

Government Employes Warned By Sargent To Stay Out Of Politics

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—A ghost came out of the closet at the Justice department today in the form of an order issued by Attorney General Sargent on September 1, 1926, limiting the political activity of all officials and employes.

Because of the outstanding political addresses of Mrs. Mable Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General whose attacks on Governor Smith and Tammany Hall have created national discussion, and activities of Col. William J. Donovan, assistant to the attorney general, in behalf of Herbert Hoover, keen interest was aroused as to the interpretation of Sargent's order.

Also it was learned that Oscar R. Luhring, of Indiana, Assistant Attorney General and former member of Congress, will be active in the campaign. United States attorneys in Missouri, New Jersey, Montana and Virginia re-candidates for public office and none has resigned.

Sargent, in a circular, called attention to Civil Service requirements that no persons so classified shall use his office authority for the purpose of affecting the result of an election and then added:

"Presidential appointees and persons not in the classified service also are amendable to the statute forbidding the use of official authority or influence to coerce the political action of any person or body and to the provisions of the criminal code relative to political assessments and contributions."

Picking Presidents

1836: Good Politician Beats Good Soldier

By CHARLES L. MULLIGAN
Written for Central Press and New Castle News

Jackson, like so many other two-term Presidents from Jefferson through to Roosevelt, hand-picked his successor. At the renominating convention of 1832 he dictated the choice of Martin Van Buren, who had been his secretary of state, for vice president. "Little Van" proved one of the most powerful of vice presidents, keeping close enough to the aggressive chief of the new democracy to be assured the nomination in '36.

At Baltimore the delegates picked Van Buren by acclamation. Their candidate had behind him a record of a master tactician in the brisk political airs of New York state. The Whigs had no national convention, scattering their attention among a number of aspirants, principal of whom were Daniel Webster and William Henry Harrison.

Harrison was due to wait four years for the prize, and that came almost too late. He was the military hero of the country, a famous Indian fighter, commander in the defeat of Chief Tecumseh in 1811, at Tippecanoe.

By this time the people were choosing the electors in every state but one, South Carolina. This was another election with a disputed point for Congress to decide, but it did not affect the issue. The ruling was made that the election was Van Buren's without the aid of the vote of Michigan, which had not yet been formally admitted.

The electoral voting resulted as follows:

For President: Martin Van Buren, Democrat, New York, 170 votes; William H. Harrison, Whig, Ohio, 73; Hugh L. White, Tennessee, 26; Daniel Webster, Massachusetts, 14; William P. Mangum, North Carolina, 11.

The election of a vice president was left to the United States Senate, which picked Richard M. Johnson, Democrat, of Kentucky.

(This is the thirteenth of a series of 35 digests of presidential campaigns. The fourteenth will be: "1840: The 'Log Cabin and Hard Cider' Excitement".)

The convention will open the morning session at 10 o'clock with a service leading to high levels of spiritual power. Your furnace requires less attention if you burn Youngstown Domestic coal in its most efficient form

If you are now heating with coal, switch to coke and lessen your heating cares. Coke will make your furnace tending easier, it will give you more uniform warmth, and it will keep your house cleaner.

Coke is coal with the dirt-making elements and non-combustible volatile matter removed. It contains the heat units of coal in a more combustible form. Consequently it burns with a steadier, more uniform heat and requires less stoking, less shaking down, less attention and fewer draft adjustments. Any furnace that will burn coal efficiently will burn coke—and make your winter's heating easier and cleaner.

Old Fashioned Medicine for Colds and Body Building Has Proved Its Value By 73 Years Success

Father John's Medicine is now being used in 184 hospitals, and institutions from coast to coast in the United States and Canada.

During its 73 years of success in the treatment of colds, throat troubles and as a body builder, Father John's Medicine has come to be recognized in a great many hospitals and charitable institutions as having great value. Because it is guaranteed free from alcohol or drugs in any form, doctors recommend it.

Father John's Medicine is a high grade preparation of Cod Liver Oil with other valuable ingredients. It builds new tissue and strength and gives power to resist illness.

Doctors have known the value of cod liver oil for a great many years and have used it freely in their practice. Modern research has determined the reason for its value, and given it the name of vitamins.

It is unquestioned that cod liver oil, when given in palatable form such as Father John's Medicine, is one of the greatest body builders for those who are weakened or run down.

The Dominican Sisters of St. Dominic Monastery, La Crosse, Wisconsin, allow us to quote from a recent letter: "We have found out that there is nothing better than Father John's Medicine for colds, or building up the body; it does a world of good."

Hour For Children At Public Library To Start Tomorrow

Story Telling Period For Kiddies Will Take Place Each Thursday At 4 O'clock

Every Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the children's department of the New Castle public library, the story telling hour will take place, according to the announcement made this morning by Miss Helen Minick, children's librarian. The first story telling hour will start tomorrow afternoon and they will continue thruout the winter months until April.

Every child in the city is invited to attend these story telling hours. Miss Minick, children's librarian, will be in charge of this special hour for the children.

During the year the children will be introduced to Aladdin, Hansel and Grettel, Ugly Duckling, Billy Beg, Johnny Cake, Clever Peter, Robin Goodfellow and a score of other just as famous characters for little folks of the story telling age.

The story hour in the library does much to develop a taste for good reading in the child. Both fairy and realistic stories will be told to them during the year. Fairy tales represent human life just the same as do realistic stories. The child likes the adventurous spirit in the tales as his very nature admires such things.

The literary form is of the best and through these tales he gets an acquaintance with some of the great old world myths as well as the entertaining stories of a lighter vein. Realistic stories are also told to the children because it adds a lustre to their every day doings.

This will mark another year for the story telling circle for children at the public library. Last year some 2,000 children from all over the city heard the stories which were told at the weekly meetings in the children's department.

Turn Hair Dark With Sage Tea

By JEAN MACON

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

YOUR CHEAPEST NECESSITY— FIRE INSURANCE

Your fire insurance dollar pays for indemnity—for immunity against financial loss when calamity overtakes you. But that dollar buys so much more than the indemnity it pays for that it ranks as one of the most profitable dollars you spend. Its purchasing power is away above the average

Fire insurance, from the indemnity standpoint alone, is one of the cheapest of present-day necessities. Its cost has consistently declined—even during the period of war inflation—practically every year for the last twenty.

And this in spite of the fact that insurance service—as rendered by the 224 Stock companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters—has multiplied its activities for the public welfare and greatly enlarged their scope.

Your fire insurance dollar may pay for indemnity only, but for good measure the Stock Fire Insurance companies provide engineering and research services to make life and property safer—laboratories in which to test materials and devices—scientific hazard measurements—building construction codes—arson detection and investigation—organized fire prevention—and many other voluntary measures designed to lower the fire waste and thereby reduce the cost of fire insurance.

All the mechanics of underwriting as conducted by the Stock Fire Insurance companies—which transact more than nine-tenths of the fire insurance business of this country—are in the public interest.

That the public may know how and why this is so, the companies propose to discuss some of the vital insurance questions.

This is the first of the series of messages. Your attention is invited to succeeding chapters, appearing at frequent intervals.

A clearer understanding of what Stock Fire Insurance really means and does—and a greater public use of its facilities—should result in a still further reduction of the fire waste and a consequently greater service to the insuring public.

Returns Money To Tea Company Agent

Three weeks ago, H. L. Hatheway, salesman for a tea company, was making a delivery at 316 Harbor road when, not knowing it, he dropped a bill on the porch. Later the mail man, named Campbell, picked it up, but the tea truck had pulled away and it was impossible to signal Mr. Hatheway.

On making a delivery to the same place two weeks later, Mr. Hatheway was informed of his loss. Not knowing how much he had lost, nor who the mail man was, he could make no claim.

On Tuesday of this week, at 422 East Reynolds street, Mr. Campbell, the mail man, hailed Mr. Hatheway, asking him if he delivered on Harbor road. On being informed that Mr. Hatheway did, and that while he had lost some money, that he did not know how much, Mr. Campbell turned a five dollar bill over to Mr. Hatheway, stating that he believed in doing for others as he would be done by. He finally consented to take a dollar as a reward.

Accused Abductor Of Missing Girls Held For Court

GREENVILE, Pa., Oct. 3.—Mark Parker, 27, was held for court by Squire J. A. Mackay on a charge of abducting two girls, Louise Bailey, 14, and Frances Fry, 13, who have been missing for more than a week. Parker insisted that he knew nothing about their whereabouts, but testimony was introduced to show that he was last seen with the girls in conversation near Penn high school.

He admitted that he knew one of the girls for a short time before their disappearance and that he had taken one of them to school a few times. He later denied the latter statement, however.

Meanwhile an intensive search is being continued throughout Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio to locate the girls.

NEWS FAT MAN LOSES TWO POUNDS TRYING Y. REDUCING PROGRAM

just as hard and as often as you could just above the "Tummie."

In a moment or two, everything was going fine, the "fat boys" showing up well. As for me, about one good blow in the "tummie" was more than enough for me. I bet I lost five pounds that time.

Then he put three of those medicine balls in action going around that circle as fast as possible. Now sometimes that was just a little more than enough for some of us slender boys and they didn't always land where there was plenty of fat.

Next thing I knew, we were all seated on the floor in a circle and the same old ball was making the rounds. Now when that ball took you off your balance, over you went and what's more you should have seen some of these youngsters trying to re-establish their equilibrium when upset. You've heard of Humpty Dumpty. Well, that should explain this point.

Sounds Crazy

Then it was roll the ball under the left leg, then the right leg and finally under both legs. Sounds easy don't it. Just try it. Don't care how slender you are, maybe you will and maybe you won't still be seated after trying it. There's one thing sure there no room for the "tummie" and the rest of you, if you do it gracefully as well as successfully. Might say that I just past through this exercise, although some of my compatriots may have thought I was about to pass out.

Oh, Yes. I forgot to tell you. We tried to touch the floor with the ball without bending our knees. Now as you've heard them say, "Some did but more didn't."

You've heard of removing wrinkles from the face. Use a knife, lift the skin and put something in to push out the wrinkles. Well, that fellow Kirker introduced a new wrinkle in ironing out the wrinkles in the fat man's tummie. It's simple, very simple and easy to do.

All you got to do is to bend your leg at the knee while seated drawing it up against the body, first one leg and then the other, then both at the same time. Of course, your not supposed to lose your balance and tumble. I didn't?

There's one thing sure, the onlooker could very easily remove all his wrinkles as he allowed himself to smile at the efforts of we fellows to put this wrinkle reducing motion into action.

Still Some Secrets

Of course, I'm not permitted to expose all the secrets of this fat removing process, because some of you other fat fellows might join, if you thought there was some thing kept out. So I'd advise you to get in before the waisting list gets too large.

But there's just one more little thing of the many that I remember, as I slowly recover the normal use of my faculties today and it's the best of all.

That Kirker fellow tells us to line up by twos, then do as he and his partner does. Away they go by count, skipping around the floor, hand in hand, then separating and skipping around in a circle by themselves and coming together and skipping together again and so on.

Well this is the story. Must say most of us fellows seemed to keep some where near our partners, but there were two. Say you should have seen them. You've heard of the Siamese twins. Well they should have been joined together, if there is anything in exactness of type of two persons of the male species.

They started off. You've seen the child's balloon, which has escaped from the owners hands as it goes bobbing here and there. Well they were a counterpart to perfection. Then they would skip around separately and even their extensive coast, excuse me, waistline, was not sufficient to get them together until the others were almost ready to start another separate skip.

The session over, Kirker said something about a shower bath. I couldn't quite get the idea, because I felt as though I had already had it. That one session cost me two pounds, but I'm going back for more, because today, I can feel racing through my arteries and veins, a stream of life blood, such as I had thought would never again be possible.

There's room for a few more worthy candidates of wide expanse of waste fat and extended waist line, and fellows, you'll live ten years longer, if you join us.

Dies On Eve Of His Golden Wedding

Charles Burns, 72, Found Dead In Field Near Home In Hickory Township

Charles Burns, aged 72 years, of the Harlansburg road, in Hickory township, was found dead by members of his family in a corn field adjoining his home Tuesday afternoon about 3:30.

Mr. Burns had left earlier in the afternoon to gather corn. When he did not return to the house a search was made for him and he was found lying in the field with an ear of corn in his hand. His death is believed to have been the result of heart trouble, he having had former heart attacks.

An unusually sad feature of his death is that he and his wife were planning to celebrate their 50th wedding aniversary on Saturday. It is thought that the undue excitement surrounding the occasion caused a heart condition which resulted in his death.

Mr. Burns was born in Mercer county, Pa., October 7, 1855, a son of Barney and Anna Edwards Burns. Since early childhood he had been a resident of Hickory township and was well known throughout that community.

Besides his widow, Lida Emery Burns, he leaves 10 children. They are: Emery and Raymond Burns of Akron, O.; Earl Burns of Detroit, Ralph Burns of Lowellville, Mrs. N. C. Shaffer, Bert Burns, Mrs. Harry Kelly, Mrs. Earl White, Mrs. Jason Shaffer and Mrs. Clair Jones of this city. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Cornelia Riley, of Greenville, and 22 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will take place Friday, Oct. 5, at two p. m. from his late residence.

Friends are kindly asked to omit flowers.

Fire Chief Asks For Co-operation

Fire Prevention Week Will Begin October 7, Says Chief C. H. Lynn

SHOULD BE CAREFUL TO PREVENT FIRES

Prevention of fire has become one of the big issues of the present time and in order that the people of the country may not forget that it is up to them, in a great degree, to prevent fires, Fire Prevention Week, is observed throughout the country during a week of October.

This year, Fire Prevention Week, falls on October 7 to 13. The people of this city as well as the entire country are asked to assist in making the country safer from the demon fire, by co-operating in its observance and following the suggestions of Fire Chief Charles H. Lynn, which are given below.

Fire Chief Lynn hopes for the active cooperation of the churches, schools, business men and all others during the coming week in freeing this city from the fire menace.

Need System

"The observance of Fire Prevention Week each year," said Chief Lynn, this morning, "is becoming increasingly important to the welfare of the nation and to the city of New Castle. During fire prevention week last year, there were only one-tenth as many fires as occur in an average week of the year, which proves that the American public when aroused to the danger, can actually avoid fire loss.

"It is not only a greater Fire Prevention Week observance that is needed here in New Castle, but a systematic avoidance of fire dangers throughout the entire year. If we will practice every day the lessons learned during Fire Prevention Week, hundreds of human lives and millions of dollars will be saved in the course of the year.

"Carelessness has been blamed for the annual fire loss of 10,000 lives and approximately $500,000,000 in property damage. As a matter of fact, false economy in building construction and failure to protect property against fire are errors that take a heavy toll. Yet, the losses from these sources can be reduced when the people thoroughly realize that the control of fire is entirely within their own hands.

Inspect Chimneys

"We should begin our Fire prevention Week effort this year by clearing out all useless material and rubbish. The cleaner this city is, the fewer fires we need expect. Then if everyone will take the precaution to dispose of rubbish daily, there will be no new accumulations and dangerous conditions will be avoided.

"During Fire Prevention Week we should also inspect our stoves and furnaces, as well as their pipes and the chimneys. Once a year, at least, they should be cleaned and all defects repaired. Make certain, also that hot ashes are not kept in wooden containers. Many disastrous fires start from these sources and the above precautions will bring fire-safety to thousands. At the same time it would be well to inspect the entire house, looking for any hazardous conditions, whether due to structural defects or furnishings, that might cause fire or facilitate its spread. Pay special attention to electrical equipment. On request, this department will gladly aid in such an inspection.

"If we are building or altering a house, it is our duty to see that the plans conform to the building code. Rarely are structures destroyed by fire that embody the principles of fire-stopping, fire resistive roofs, enclosed stairways, properly installed, electrical wiring and heating plants, and chimneys that are properly built. If an accident causes a fire in such a building, the blaze is generally confined to the room in which it originated and the fire department has time to reach the scene and extinguish the fire before much damage is done.

Learn Carefulness

"Above all we must learn the habit of carefulness toward fire. In this respect matches and cigarettes require the closest observation as they cause the greatest losses. Yet how simple the remedy! Just make sure the butt or match is out before discarding it! keep matches in metal containers and out of the reach of children. Respect fire and keep it in its place!

"If you will follow these suggestions now and all year your fire chief is certain that the fire demon will not strike you down.

Federal Trade Commission Resumes Power Trust Hearing

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The vacation season over, the federal trade commission has resumed its investigation of the country's power interests.

When the hearing was adjourned early in the summer, the commission was busy with these interests' methods of influencing public opinion—by spending barrels of money where it seemed likely to do the most good, on clergymen, college professors, writers, lecturers and such folk, who are supposed to speak with authority to large numbers of people.

Right where the inquiry was left off it has been taken up again.

Soon, however, the "probers" expect to go into the question of the amount of money the power companies make.

Without in the least implying that they make a bit more than they are entitled to, the claim certainly is made that some of them charge a lot more than similar companies in other countries—across the border, in Canada, for instance.

This is a puzzle which the commission's experts are sure to do their utmost to find the answer to.

Naturally the companies will not wish it to appear that they have been scooping in whacking big profits. On the opposite hand, opponents of the private power interests, like Senator Norris, do emphatically want to have it brought out that the companies are making perfectly enormous profits.

This clash in desires promises to make the next chapter in the investigation vastly exciting.

The private power interests will be trying to prove one thing. The anti-private power agitators will be trying to prove the contrary. The federal trade commission will be trying to put their conflicting proofs together, in an effort to make heads and tails out of them.

The strangest things of all is how the power industries happened to become involved in a sure-enough investigation by the federal trade commission.

Originally the inquiry was proposed by a group of radical senators, who planned to make it a senate investigation.

Senate investigations have the reputation of being very troublesome. The power magnates objected to being pestered by one. They proposed a transfer to the trade commission, which, hand picked by a conservative administration, was considered, by everybody, certain to put a prompt extinguisher on anything in the least annoying to big business—such as a bothersome investigation of the power interests.

After a hard fight, the power folk won their point.

The inquiry went to the trade body. It was assigned to Commissioner Edgar A. McCulloch to preside over. And immediately it developed into an inquiry about three times as severe as any senate investigating committee ever dreamed of.

It was a case of "out of the frying pan, into the fire" for the power interests, and no mistake about it.

The truth is, the appointment of Judge McCulloch to the commission seems to have been a terrible oversight on the administration's part.

By law it is a bi-partisan body, and a few months ago a vacancy occurred in its personnel which it was necessary to appoint a Democrat to fill. The Democratic senators, consulted, recommended a quiet old southern jurist for whom the White House appears to have accepted his sponsors' testimonial without delving into his record as thoroughly as, maybe, would have been wiser.

It was Commissioner McCullogh.

Alas! the Democratic senators put one over on the president.

The new commissioner is not a 100 per cent conservative. He must have a wide streak of radicalism in his system. With a properly developed bump of respect for big business, he would have chloroformed that power investigation long ago. Instead—look at it!—a hum-dinger!—and still young, from all indications.

SEVEN DOCTORS FAILED: KONJOLA BROUGHT RELIEF

Two Years Of Stomach Misery Terminated By Powerful New Medicine.

MR. JOHN B. HUNTER

Like life-giving rain after a long drouth; like sunshine after the storm, Konjola, the new medicine, is proving a boon and a blessing to scores of sufferers, in New Castle and vicinity. Daily the Konjola Man is telling eager questioners about this wonderful remedy for troubles for the victims of the dreaded rheumatism and neuritis. Those who suffer are invited—urged—to see the Konjola Man at the Love & Megown Drug Store, 204 Washington Street, New Castle. Tell him your symptoms; he will show you what Konjola has done for hundreds who once suffered as you do, and who are now well. Read, for instance the statement Mr. John B. Hunter, 1116 Dewey Avenue, this city, made to the Konjola Man.

"You can imagine", said Mr. Hunter, beaming with new health and new interest in life," what I think of Konjola when I tell you that it restored me to health after seven doctors failed to do me the least bit of good. For two years I suffered from stomach trouble. Every bit of food I ate laid like a rock in the pit of my stomach, causing terrible pains. Constipation developed, and the strongest of laxatives were necessary. Finally even these failed partially, and I was in a serious condition.

"An acquaintance told me about Konjola, and though I was about disgusted with two years of failure, I thought I might as well take one more chance. Well, two bottles of this new medicine removed all my troubles. Think of that—after doctoring for two years without result except expense. I am better and stronger already than I was before my stomach trouble started, and you can use my name to anyone who suffers as I did. I'm certainly strong for Konjola".

Reports of quick permanent and surprising recoveries like this are old stories to the Konjola Man; he hears them every day, for the delighted users of Konjola are always so grateful for quick and, in many cases, unexpected relief, that they come back to tell what Konjola has meant to their health and happiness. It is only reasonable to presume that what Konjola has done for countless thousands of others it will do for you. All Konjola asks is the privilege of making you well.

The Konjola Man is at the Love & Megown Drug Store, 204 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

Konjola contains juices from 22 plants—more than other medicines. It is a new compound that works with the sufferer's food, restoring more healthful action to the important organs (stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels) and producing new energy and glorious health in a natural way, thru the entire inner-system.

BELGIAN ROADS FIGHT MOTORS

To compete with the growing motor transportation, the Belgian railways are giving cheap week-end tickets, reduced rates for parties, and are working on a plan for door-to-door transportation for both passengers and freight. Passenger cars are to be improved and equipped with modern comforts for travelers. Showing the popularity of motor transportation, the municipal trade department at Ghent reports that at least 85 surrounding villages are now connected with that town by regular motor car services.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

THE WHOLE MAN.

Standing before 3,000 scientists in Glasgow the president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science told his distinguished audience that man has a soul.

"Science is not setting forth to destroy the soul' he said, "but to keep body and soul together."

It is a significant fact that more of the great thinkers and research workers of the world are coming to the conclusion that man is more than an animal. Evolution cannot account for everything. We are not solely dependent upon instinct. There are the achievements of the mind and soul that have to be accounted for. The whole man is more than a biological specimen.

DOES EDUCATION PAY?

A Milwaukee woman, Catherine Marie Rice arguing with somebody else as to whether education has much to do with increasing one's chances of success in life quotes effectively from a book entitled "The Money Value of Education" by A. Caswell Ellis. One learns from that book that a study of the distinguished men of America shows that with no schooling only 31 out of 5,000,000 attained distinction.

With elementary schooling, of 33,000,000, 808 attained distinction.

With high school education of 2,000,000, 1,245 attained distinction

With college education, of 1,000,000, 5,768 attained distinction.

The child with no schooling has one chance in 150,000 of performing distinguished service, with elementary education he has four times the chances; with high school education 87 times the chance; with college education 800 times the chance.

From the ranks of the college graduates have come 55 per cent of our presidents, 36 per cent of the members of congress, 47 per cent of the speakers of the house., 54 per cent of the vice presidents, 62 per cent of the secretaries of state 50 per cent of the secretaries of the treasury, 67 per cent of the attorney general, 69 per cent of the justices of the supreme court.

OBSCURITY.

Let us be thankful for the blessings of obscurity. In this republic there are few titles. Most of us can come and go without having any considerable number worry about it. No kings and queens. We do have a president however and his family. Poor John Coolidge can not go about his courting without having the world look on or at least be told about it. Most of us are permitted to enjoy a comfortable obscurity and we should be glad of it.

Denies "Tipping" Mayor Mackey On Vare's Election

Former Chairman Of State Democratic Committee Denies Accusations By Mackey

(International News Service)

PHILDELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Cornelius Haggerty, former chairman of the Democratic State Committee, today denied flatly that he "tipped off" Mayor Harry A. Mackey in advance that the election of William S. Vare (R) to the United States Senate in 1926 would be contested by William B. Wilson, Democratic candidate. The charge was made yesterday by Mayor Mackey before the Waterman senatorial investigating committee.

"Some of Mayor Mackey's testimony is correct. Some of it is incorrect and his interpretation is most unfair," said Haggerty. "I merely warned him that if any fraud were committed we would appeal to the U. S. Senate. The evidence shows there was fraud and we did appeal to the U. S. Senate. My warning was not an idle boast."

Divine Healing Again Discussed

Evangelist Erickson Speaks To Large Crowd At Tabernacle

SERVICES BEING HELD NIGHTLY

Evangelist C. H. Erickson's revival tabernacle was filled almost to overflowing Tuesday night when nearly 2,500 persons gathered into the huge wooden hall, situated at the corner of South Mill and Friendship streets, for another stirring message on the subject of divine healing.

For his discussion, Rev. Erickson had chosen the topic of "Healing—The Will of God," for which he took passages of scripture from Exodus 15:25-26 and John 6:38, bearing the thought that Jesus Christ was the revelation of the will of God to man for all time and for that reason he healed everyone that came to him, both rich and poor. The evangelist has already delivered a number of sermons on this theme, and during the future Tuesday and Friday evening meetings will limit his discourse to the lone subject of healing.

The evening's song service by the audience took its regular course, with Mrs. Erickson leading the vast throng in praise. The songs were interspersed with selections rendered by the colored evangelistical quintet, secured by Rev. Erickson for his New Castle campaign. On the platform were seated ministers of several local congregations who were invited as special guests of the party.

In his sermon on the healing subject, Rev. Erickson said in part:

"Men have been afflicted with illness ever since sin came into existence. Men are now looking toward the Bible for help. They're demanding more of that great book now than a creed, they are searching for something that will help them in their daily life.

"When we are sick we should seek the Lord for He is partial to all—the same to all men. Jesus, while upon earth, healed hundreds and thousands of persons, and healed freely. He came into the world not to do His will but to that of God the Father. Someone has said that 'no man has ever reached up to take the nail-pierced hand of Jesus Christ, the Son of God.' The Lord can forgive our sins and heel our bodies for in that chapter of Exodus, in which the Lord says that 'if thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the Lord thy God, and will do that which is right in His sight, and wilt give ear to His commandments, and keep His statutes I will put none of these diseases upon thee, which I have brought upon the Egyptians: for I am the Lord that healeth thee,' He makes plain that those who are obedient unto Him will be healed."

Evangelist Erickson cited a number of Old Testament instances where healing had been accomplished thru prayer, and which were brought about by the sufferers' knowledge of the will of the Lord.

Services are being held nightly at the tabernacle.

squire, R. C. McCaslin, Lenwood Y. Eckers of Sharon posted $750 bail here yesterday in order to plead his case of "hit and run" driving before the December court. Over 3,000 See King Of Kings At Cathedral

Picture Tells True Story Of Life Of Christ; Is Marvel Of Directing

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA FEATURE OF EVENING

Twenty-One Dancers Depict Life In Palestine In Prologue Presentation

To say that the "King of Kings", playing this week at the Scottish Rite cathedral auditorium is marvelous, to say that it astounded over 3,000 people Tuesday evening, is inadequate, as would be most descriptions of that most tremendous spectacle that ever was attempted by motion picture producers.

For one, this critic went into the auditorium expecting to be disappointed. If the picture lived up to its advertising, it would be astonishing, he thought. But this afternoon he is convinced that the advertising tells but weakly the stupendous nature of the film.

When a director, such as Cecil B. DeMille, succeeds in crowding into an hour and a half the life cycle of the most famous man of history, and when he succeeds in making every incident of that life ring true, he has accomplished that which every motion picture director strives for but seldom attains. Yet he has done that very thing. He has told the story of the Christ, and has told it with such accuracy and such amazing amount of detail that there is little more to ask.

Again, when such a feature picture is backed with a musical score such as the one rendered by Ted Hall and the Cathedral Little Symphony orchestra, there is little more to be desired. Mr. Hall and his musicians caught the spirit of every scene, of every foot of film, and Mr. Hall and his musicians added that touch of something which is indefinable, but which goes to make up a perfect programme.

To cap the climax, as a prologue to the "King of Kings", Billy Vernon Erhart and an ensemble of 21 dancers portrayed the spirit of ancient Palestine for the audience in a presentation which has been seldom equaled in New Castle. Added to the excellent work of the organist at the console, it made up by far the finest night's entertainment that this subscriber has ever witnessed in this city.

If there is a person in New Castle who loves the story of the life of Christ, who wants to see it portrayed, to see it lived over again, then, in the opinion of this reviewer, by no means should he miss the "King of Kings", which will not close until Saturday night, October 6.

How Is Chip, Dime And Goldie Asks Stranger In Note

Yesterday Ray Hall of the Credit Exchange was up in Erie at the lake on a fishing trip. He parked his car on a down town street while out on the lake angling the anglers.

Now Ray has a New Castle plate attached to his car on the license and who ever the mysterious stranger was saw the plate and attached a little note written on pretty pink paper beneath Mr. Hall's windshield wiper.

"How is George Chip, Jimmy Dime and Goldie at the ice cream plant?" the little note from the stranger read. There was nothing more and no signature.

State Firemen's Convention Delegates Vote On City For 1929 Meeting

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 3.—The spotlight of today's business sessions of the 49th annual state convention of the Pennsylvania Firemen's association centered in the voting for the 1929 convention site which lay between Lebanon, Norristown and Pittsburgh.

Prior to the selection of the convention site, rivalry ran high between the delegates from the three cities vieing with each other for the honor of playing host to the firemen in 1929.

Even the election of officers scheduled on today's program was overshadowed by the interest centered in the selection of the convention site.

Two Men Die When Gas Line Explodes

Firemen Fail To Save Workers In Chicago Disaster

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Two men were killed and another probably fatally injured here Tuesday in an explosion of a gas main in a sewer.

The men were fifteen feet below street level when the explosion occurred. Firemen risked their lives struggling through the poisonous fumes to reach the unconscious laborers.

They were rushed to a hospital where two of the men died while attempts were made to revive them.

KING OF KINGS

On MONDAY, OCTOBER 1st, and continuing ALL WEEK, New Castle and the surrounding Counties will be privileged to see a spectacle which is the supreme achievement of a Great Artist and Master Creator—a man known throughout the civilized and even the non-civilized world, as a Molder of Emotions and a Maker of Stars—Cecil B. De Mille—the Genius who produced the "KING OF KINGS" which is his Greatest Triumph and Contribution for the entertainment of all peoples.

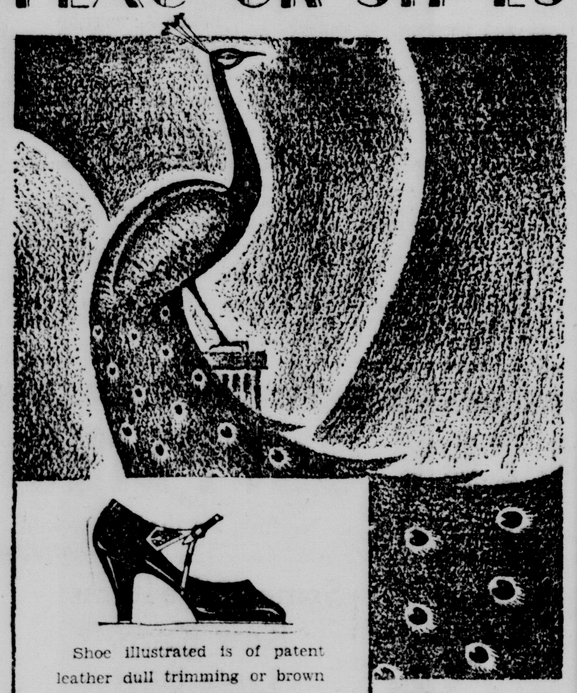

We of the "Cathedral" take pride in presenting this most beautiful and dramatic spectacle of the Life of Christ as done in the De Mille manner—and feel that the people of New Castle and its environs will join the world in applauding this truly wondrous production.

Mothers—fathers—the ministry—and school teachers—all should unite in seeing to it that the younger ones who depend on you for the uplifting of their minds, be brought to the Cathedral to view "THE KING OF KINGS"—they will cherish the memory of its teachings throughout the years.

Hundreds of people will see the "KING OF KINGS" during this week at the Cathedral—we hope—for your entertainment sake that you will be one of them.

Rush Work On School Annex

Over 600 Persons Will Be Able To Use Union High Auditorium

MAY BE READY BY SECOND SEMESTER

Outstanding progress is being accomplished by workmen on the new six-room annex to the Union High school, Union township. When completed the new part will provide an auditorium-gymnasium with a seating capacity of more than 600 persons when used for program purposes; six ordinary classrooms, a science lecture room, a domestic science room, a new boys' shower room and other improvements for the Union students.

It is estimated that construction work will not be completed until after the first of next year and that it will not be occupied until the opening of the second semester, some time during January.

According to Principal Roy F. Conway, the new part, combined with the old, will accommodate a total of 600 students in the 18 classrooms that will then be available.

——— used for athletic purposes the auditorium-gymnasium will provide a fine playing floor, 60 feet by 40 feet around, with a two-foot boundary surrounding it. When used as an auditorium seats will be arranged and a stage 22 feet deep and with proscenium arch of 30 feet, brought into service.

All of the brick work on the structure has been practically completed. Progress is detained somewhat by the placing of joists upon which the roof over the auditorium-gymnasium will rest. It will be necessary to rivet these and as soon as this matter is completed work will continue in earnest.

The new part of the building will be the regular height of the main structure when finished, while the wing, which will house the gym and auditorium will go no higher than the ground floor roof.

"POLITICAL INFORMATION FOR WOMEN"

Campaign Expenses

Many women are asking why a political party needs a campaign fund running into millions of dollars, to carry on a National Campaign.

With the growth of the country and the coming of the primary system, the the cost of carrying on a presidential campaign, counting only those expenditures which the most scrupulous would recognize as necessary, has increased tremendously in recent years. State, local, county, ward and precinct committees must be furnished with thousands of pieces of literature; with nationally known speakers, if they call for them, and nearly always must be helped out with funds from the national committee treasury to help pay for clerk hire, advertising, publicity and travel expenses.

The state committees usually finance their own campaigns for state officers, but are accustomed to call upon the national committee to defray most of the expense incident to campaigning for the presidential candidate. The chairman of the national committee must, therefore, keep so well informed concerning conditions in every state that he will know when and where to spend money and how much to spend.

The following are a few things, all of which cost money: Headquarters, rent and furniture; Halls, bands and speakers; advertising, printing and stationery; sample ballots, postage, telephone and telegraph; travelling expenses, clerk hire and headquarters payroll; stenography and typewriting; banners and placards; campaign buttons, campaign literature, and copies of registration lists; Election-day expenses, automobiles, radio, etc.

These are all legitimate expenditures, but, in a big state or city, they run into large figures. For instance, to send a single letter under a two cent stamp to 200,000 legalized-voters costs for postage, alone $4,000. When you add in the cost of the paper and envelope the amount practically doubles. Most of the big cities have a great many more than 200,000 voters.

Every voter gets many pieces of literature during a presidential campaign, count the cities of Pennsylvania, and you have only a fraction of the cities that must be covered with this one item alone.

Since we have agreed that a presidential campaign costs a tremendous sum of money, let us use our best efforts to elect the best officials, thereby getting big returns for our investment.

Bert Stevenson Writes About Reconstruction In Porto Rico

Another graphic description of the havoc wrought in Porto Rico by the hurricane which devastated the little island recently, and how the plantation owners are carrying on against almost insurmountable odds, is contained in a letter received today by Fred L. Rentz, president of The New Castle News, from Bert E. Stevenson, a plantation owner in Porto Rico and a former resident of New Castle.

Mr. Stevenson tells of the relief work being done among the peons by the American Red Cross and other agencies. He also states that there is no imminent need of food in the island at the present time, but the real need is some way to finance the farmer so that he can recoup his losses. To his letter Mr. Stevenson has appended an estimate of the damage done to the island, compiled by him for the fruit growers.

The letter and the statement follow:

PORTO RICO, Sept. 26, 1928.

Dear Fred:

We certainly appreciate your interest in our personal welfare. It is mighty nice to have real friends think of you in trying times like these. We received about 30 letters in the last mail asking about our personal welfare. And aside from these we received seven cables. So we now know that we still have a lot of real friends back in the north land.

I don't have much to add to what I wrote you last week excepting to say that we have been working night and day for the past 10 days. One never could realize how much work there is to do after a disaster of this character until he has gone through one. But we are glad to be able to assist.

Things are moving along about as well as could be expected after a thing of this kind. It takes a little time to get things organized.

On the farm we are fast getting back to normal. Just this afternoon we had the electricity switched into our place. We have about 500 people depending on our well for water. And I made a plea for water and stressed my point, and I got the power. We are the only party that has electric power this side of Bayamon, but we just had to have it. We went after it in the right way and we got it.

We have all our peons' houses covered with a roof. Within a day or two we will again have our packing house under cover. All of our trees have been uprighted and they have already began to shoot out new growth. It now begins to look like springtime up north. All the trees and shrubbery that were defoliaged are now beginning to put out new growth. We have no dormant periods in Porto Rico. Trees, shrubbery and flowers grow all the time. Our grapefruit trees have already put out a new growth that is really surprising.

As I wrote you last week, there is no shortage of foodstuffs in Porto Rico. It is just a question of proper distribution. While we are going to need food and supplies and plenty of it, thank the Lord Col. Baker of the American Red Cross is here and hard at work. He is a real live wire and already has the situation well in hand.

I had the pleasure of sitting in a conference with the colonel yesterday afternoon. The first thing he saw was how politics were being injected into the Red Cross work under the local chapters. But he soon nipped this in the bud.

He has already laid the island out in five different districts. Each district will be in charge of a trained American brought down from the North for this work. And from these districts foodstuffs will be distributed under military direction by officers of the 65th Infantry of the U. S. A., and through this system the proper distribution will prevail.

There is bound to be a lot of suffering, as thousands upon thousands are homeless. Of course, the peon homes in the rural districts as a rule are nothing but mere huts. They were miserable shacks at best, but they had a roof over them. Now the most of them don't even have a roof. In driving along the road it is no uncommon thing to see a woman with two or three small children sitting under a little lean-to that was stuck up from what was left of their former shack.

These are the people that are going to suffer. And that class is in the vast majority. But thank fortune we have a man like Col. Baker here. He will soon get this all straightened out.

The next serious question is the financing of the farmer so that he may be able to furnish labor for the hungry peon. That is the serious question, and one that will have to be solved somehow.

I have been working on a committee that has been working up a statement of the fruit industry. I am enclosing a copy which will give you some idea of what the fruit industry is up against. This statement is an estimate, but a farm-to-farm survey of the situation only brings these figures down to a little less than $5,000,000. The fruit industry is the only industry that has gotten out a statement of this kind as yet.

With warm personal regards to you and yours. Remember us to any inquiring friends. Tell them we are safe, well and hard at work.

Most sincerely,

BERT AND LOU.

The statement follows:

This estimate has been carefully made by the committee of seven which were appointed at the fruit growers' meeting to work out the matter of the loss of the fruit growers, in order that they might understand their needs:

Statement of Fruit Industry in Porto Rico

Number of plantations, about 175; cultivated citrus trees, about 6,000 acres; pineapples, about 3,500 acres; citrus fruit crop lost, about 1,450,000 boxes; net value to growers, about $2,900,000; estimated tree loss being 10 to 12 per cent of the total, about 50,000 trees.

The pineapple loss cannot be estimated at this time. The crop expectation was 800,000 boxes, at a net value of $1,200,000. This will undoubtedly be reduced one-half and perhaps a great deal more. The production will likewise be reduced, and now plantings will inevitably be curtailed for lack of slips.

The estimated total loss is distributed as follows:

Houses for laborers	$ 315,000
Packing Houses and Barns	500,000
Residences	200,000
Household Effects	175,000
Machinery and Materials	200,000
Citrus Crop	2,900,000
Citrus Trees and Pineapple Loss	1,000,000
Total	$5,290,000

(Signed)
BERT E. STEVENSON,
Chairman of the Committee.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for it

BABY has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is a vegetable product. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea which must be checked without delay. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Expect To Complete Ellwood Road This Coming Saturday

Expect Road To Be Open For Travel Again October 20, It Is Stated

Saturday evening, unless weather conditions do not permit, the laying of concrete on the stretch of the Ellwood City road between East Washington street and East New Castle borough will be completed, according to the statement of contractors this morning.

Concreting has been completed practically down to the bridge at Cascade park. The grading is completed and workmen are laying the diamond finish prior to the concreting.

The street car tracks from East Washington street at the city line to the park entrance is being moved from the road and will be at the side of the concrete.

According to this announcement, it is probable that the road will be open for traffic shortly after the middle of October.

Chewing gum has become such a craze in London that cleaners in trains, buses, theaters and motion picture houses are complaining of the extra work of removing the "parked" wads from under the seats. Dealers say the demand for gum grew greatly during the summer, and they believe touring Americans were responsible for much of it. The Londoners then took up the habit from the visitors.

Sunspots And The Weather

By S. S. MYERS

Sunspots increase and diminish in approximately 11 year cycles. They are supposed to be now at the maximum and will decrease during the next five or six years until they reach the minimum when there will be few if any after which they will begin to increase again.

Just what causes these spots on the sun which seem to be deep vortises, cyclonic in appearance is not clearly understood. We know that the sun is a huge ball of glowing gass and that the pressure upon the interior must be inconceivably great. It is supposed that the pressure gradually increases, causing tremendous electrical disturbances which force their way to the surface rending aside the outer atmosphere of the sun in the form of vast cyclones. The largest of the sunspots during the past few months has been nearly 100,000 miles in diameter.

It has been observed that our weather also runs in cycles corresponding with those of the sun. The nearer the sunspots reach the maximum the more changeable becomes the weather from extreme heat to cold, especially during the summer when there is likely to be excessive rainfall such as we have experienced during the past two or three years.

This may be accounted for on the hypothesis that the electric and magnetic disturbances on the sun influence those of the earth. It is a known fact that the electric forces of the earth have an influence upon the weather and there is every reason to believe that the electricity of the sun influences that of the earth

Like earth magnetism, electricity is still much of a mystery. It is one of the unseen forces of nature about which we know very little. We have learned to apply it, to a limited extent, in carrying on the work of the world, but as an industry it is yet in its infancy. The human race has passed through the rough and polished stone ages, the bronze and iron ages, and each age in turn, has developed a higher plane of civilization. We are now just entering the electric age. What it will add to the progress of mankind remains to be seen.

Of course there are other conditions that influence the weather aside from sunspots. For instance scientists are now predicting a very cold winter owing to the recent terrific volcanic eruptions in the Dutch West Indies which sent millions of tons of volcanic dust high into the upper atmosphere. It is said that these dust particles are spreading around the entire earth like a curtain and that this dust curtain will obstruct some of the sun's heat until gravitation, electricity and rain precipitates it. Many persons will remember a similar condition back in 1883 when the upper atmosphere was filled with volcanic dust causing some of the most brilliant sunsets ever witnessed before or since.

WOMEN MOURNERS BARRED

In accordance with the Scottish custom, by which no women mourners are present, men only attended the funeral recently of ex-Councillor Donald Clark of Hildenborough, England, famed for his stand against mixed bathing. The only family mourners were his three sons. Clark was buried in the grave of his daughter, whose early death is believed to have brought on the illness which caused his demise.

Paris Traffic Regulations Are Wonder To U.S. Tourists

By WILLIAM IVY
(Copyright, 1928, by The New Castle News.)

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Only a few brief years ago traffic regulation in Paris was a tragic joke. The number of cars on the streets and boulevards had tripled almost over night, and the prefecture of police had no plan for dealing with the problem. Police were soon posted at the principal corners, but without special training of special orders their role was limited chiefly to bawling out clumsy drivers —usually with the result of making the traffic tangle worse instead of better.

On several occasions traffic experts from New York and other American cities were called in consultation, and some of their suggestions were adopted. Not all, however—and Paris can be thankful for that.

For today the handling of traffic in Paris is the wonder and admiration of all American visitors, who usually are ready to admit that the system in this city is superior to that of most American cities.

One feature of the Paris system is its flexibility. There are few iron-bound regulations, and while there are stop-lights, electrically controlled, at the principal intersections along the Grands Boulevards, these are not manipulated simultaneously. At each of these big centers of congestion are several policemen with a sergeant in command, and the officers are given a maximum of freedom to handle the traffic stream in the most expeditious way.

All the traffic squad are specially trained, and if there is one guiding principle for them in their work it is politeness and good humor. The consequence is that even at the worst rush hours, traffic moves along smoothly and rapidly. It is extremely rare to see a summons issued for violation of traffic regulations.

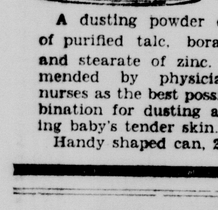

People who have observed both say that the American system is too automatic, and fails to give the police sufficient leeway. Perhaps it is now the turn of Paris to send "experts" to American cities to help in solving this great municipal problem.

We know a man whose sense of self-importance is such that he will probably never be happy until he is denounced by a presidential candidate. Worcester Evening Gazette.

CORMORANT COMFORTS THE SULKY CAPTIVE

"'Three cheers for Bill!' echoed the sailors with hearty good will. Everyone was well pleased.

"Only the Albatross, the cause of all this jollity, was sad. He would not make friends with any of the sailors. One ran for a fish and brought it back for him to eat, but he would have none of it. Another brought a bit of blue ribbon to tie about the bird's neck, but Albatross gave the fellow's hand a sharp dig with his beak as he was tying it on. Nothing any of them could do or say pleased him. He hung his head and would not even look at them. At last they gave up trying to win his attention and, tying a long cord about his left leg, they went off and left him to sulk by himself.

"Cormorant felt sorry for Albatross. How could the poor fellow be happy when every moment the ship was carrying him where—he did not know. To be sure, no real harm was going to come to him; but, after all, being a captive among strangers—Two-Legs, at that—was enough for any bird to worry about. Cormorant decided that as soon as he made sure that nobody was watching him he would fly down upon the rigging and talk to the chap. So when the coast was clear he flapped down from his high perch upon the conning tower and took up his stand by the mournful Albatross.

"'Hello, friend,' said he is a low voice, 'don't feel so bad, I pray you. You really have nothing to fear. Those Two-Legs mean you no harm.'

"Albatross had not seen him coming and now he turned a startled face toward him and gasped.

"'Goodness gracious, how did you get up here? I thought that I was the only bird on this ship. Who are you anyhow, and what are you here for? Did the sailors take you captive, too?"

"I WONDER WHY THEY TIED THIS RIBBON AROUND MY NECK"

"'No, they didn't,' said Cormorant. 'They do not care enough for me for that, but they love you and think that you are so wonderful that you will bring luck wherever you are. And that is why they took you captive and tried so hard to make friends with you.'

"'Is that so?' questioned Albatross, much interested. 'I never dreamed of anything like that. I thought they wished to hurt me. I wonder why they tied this ribbon around my neck.'

"'Oh, no doubt that is a decoration of some sort that the Humans give to those whom they wish to honor,' replied Cormorant, although he really knew nothing at all about it."

HAPPIEST MAN MARRIES

When M. Grimault, known as the happiest man in Nanterre, a suburb of Paris, was married recently, friends gave the popular bridegroom a fitting celebration. Grimault and his bride were conveyed to the Mairie in a wheelbarrow that had been decorated with leaves. Signs on it told of the approaching ceremony as friends pulled the vehicle through the streets. Grimault was compelled to wear a fantastic cap, huge goggles and scarf and to carry a copious basket filled with edibles and other gifts. Other wheelbarrows carried guests.

A crank is a man who won't believe you are on the right side unless you are as unreasonable as he is.

Woman's work is outside the home

Writes a woman: "Your advertising of used cars as 'family cars' means more to me than I can say.

"A second car would be more than a luxury in our family. After my husband drives away in the morning I have to take our daughter to school . . . It's quite a way off and I want to be sure that she gets there safely. Then I have to go to market . . . I do my best but I haven't the time to shop for the best I can get for our budget. Then I want to be sure my little girl gets back safely . . . Some days it is raining or snowing . . . And I must confess that I'd like to see more friends and take a real interest in civic matters . . . But what can a woman do? Though her business is outside the home too, she hasn't the use of a car."

The cars which General Motors dealers are taking in trade offer women an opportunity to have cars of their own at low price. And their purchase may be arranged on General Motors' plan of payments—the GMAC Plan.

Chicago Has Funeral Fans

People Like To Cry; Funerals Draw Better Than Weddings In Windy City

BRIDES RECEIVE COCKTAIL SHAKERS

By IONE QUINBY
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—Funeral fans are among the curious oddities of the big city. There are persons who follow funerals with as much avidity as others follow horse races or carnivals. They wouldn't miss a good cry for anything! If the person who is dead is a celebrity, so much the better, but they would go just the same if the funeral happened to be public.

Funerals draw bigger crowds than weddings. The reason is, more people thrill to morbid things than to things that are joyous. When Mary Landon Baker left Allister McCormick, multi-millionaire, waiting at the church steps with the pews filled with Chicago's 400, only two or three of the curious were on hand. If they had known Mary intended to ditch Allister, they might have been there. As it was, they missed the show.

When Wanda Stopa, Polish girl, who murdered a man and then committed suicide, was buried, the police estimated the milling crowds as 10,000. Most of the fans were women with babies in their arms or children hanging to their skirts. They filled several blocks around the house where the funeral was held. The Valentino funeral in New York was another instance.

Let a public man die, or advertise a gunman's funeral and the street outside the church, undertaking parlor or home is thronged with the morbid and curious. There is a woman who scans the papers nightly for obituary notices so that she can attend several good funerals a week. She is called "Funeral Mary" because of her regular attendance at wakes and buryings. Usually the relatives think she is a neighbor. It is easy to get by at a funeral in a big city, even private ones, because a lot of people don't know their neighbors, even by sight.

No longer will the whoopee and other night owls find the streets cluttered up with milk wagons and horses when they start home at early dawn. All deliveries of milk from now on will be made after sunup, according to a new ruling of the milk council. This will give the children a chance to see a nice horsie drive up with the breakfast milk.

Would the bride-to-be like a cocktail shaker? She probably will get two or three. Prohibition has elevated the once tabooed flask and cocktail ensemble to social propriety. Twelve years ago a cocktail shaker at the bride's shower would have ostracized you for life. Now the bride is disappointed if she doesn't get one. North shore displays of wedding gifts show more duplicates of cocktail ensembles than of any other articles. It used to be silver cake baskets, and then it was cut glass pickle dishes.

Must Feed Pullets Well To Maintain Production Of Eggs

Pullets That Do Not Lay Are Generally Under Weight Says McCulloch

"Pullets must get enough grain to eat or else they will not lay during the winter months," states County Agent Harold McCulloch." The average person," states Mr. McCulloch, does not feed the pullets heavy enough for fear of destroying the egg laying capacity and thus the pullets are unable to keep up their egg laying all winter.

"A mush made up from 10 pounds of ground yellow corn, 10 pounds of ground rolled oats, 10 pounds of condensed or dried milk, and one quart of cod liver oil fed at the rate of three pounds to each 100 birds will help hold up the body weight and the egg production," state McCulloch.

Mr. McCulloch says that in the county there are many cases that he has observed where pullets did not lay simply because the body weight was not up to standard.

Broadway's Phantasmagoria Spreads Before New Yorker

New Columnist Tells About Poor Izzy Who Wanted To Go To The Country

New York's Best Liquid Refreshments Come From Laboratories In Bronx

By CLARK KINNAIRD
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Alexander C. Herman, a star writer for Central Press, conducts this column today.

I give him a clear signal and full speed ahead—therefore, here's his contribution (he's a born New Yorker):

Glimmering lights shimmer—the other side of Broadway. There is life's back-stage—real drama, ribald and comic, grim and drab, ludicrous and heart-rending.

No sob-sisters' embellishments are necessary to deepen the colors. It is a life with no consciousness of flourishing curlicues, and passes on and off—as your life and mine.

But picture as you go, and you glimpse:

A fourth-floor rear "suite" in a West Forty-seventh street "hotel"—sitting room, bedroom and bath. On an over-stuffed settee lounges a girl—small-time chorine, blonde, pasty-faced, with tiring, forced twinkle in eye. Legs crossed, skirt short, stockings low, she resembles the prototype of the old brewery ad calendar girls.

With her is the leader of a "mob"—a gang that preys on small manufacturers, foments strikes, and then offers to furnish "protection" to each side. His mushing technique is sloppy. But one man is much like another, and the girl is listless.

From the adjoining bedroom steps her sweety—a lieutenant of the gang. The flash in the girl's eye tries a come-back. She curls her lips into a smile. She tries to appear composed.

The younger man tells his chief to lay off. The leader laughs and draws the girl closer. A few more gestures; a flash of open razor in the shaded light; and the chief shies off.

The girl laughs. Her sweetie hitches his belt. The girl is his for keeps.

But "keeps" may not be long. For one doesn't pull a knife on a chief and get away with it. Some day soon another body will be found somewhere in an alley off a side street.

He knows it; the girl knows it. But what of it? That is in the future—and this is today.

In a kindergarten of a crowded district of the mid-east side, little Izzy tells teacher that he not be coming to her school anymore. He is going to the country the next day. The teacher, tired, pays little attention. The youngster goes on painting glowing pictures of the new life that awaits him. His side-kicks gape in amazement and call him liar.

The next day there is no Izzy. His mother comes instead. Yes, it is true, she tells teacher, that Izadore will not be coming to school. For she must go to a hospital for a very serious operation, and the boy and his three sisters have been placed in charity homes. Maybe she will never live to see them again; not that she is scared for herself, but what will they grow up without a mama?

But Izzy will be happy in the country, solaced the teacher. Some country, replies the mother—it's on West 137th street in the orphan asylum.

Best booze in New York, informs the city's most honest bootlegger, comes from the laboratories of the Bronx.

"By the time the smuggled in stuff gets cut and handled," he says, "there's no way of knowing how clean it is. But up in our place, we have a spotless laboratory, a chemist who gets $250 for a five-day week of three hours a day, and the purest chemicals. We can make any drink one wants—synthetically, and could pass any pure drugs act, if they would cover our trade.

"We ought to be protected against the gyppers!"

Nothing Helped Him Until He Used Ten Herbs

Local Painter Tells How New Herbal Medicine Ended Health Troubles.

"Although I tried all kinds of medicines, nothing helped me until I used Ten Herbs," was the recent statement of Mr. Robert Troutman, Quest St., New Castle, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this new herbal medicine to crowds of men and women of all ages and stations in life.

MR. ROBERT TROUTMAN

"Before taking Ten Herbs, I suffered with indigestion," continued Mr. Troutman, who is a painter. "I had to be very careful what I ate, as the slightest deviation from my simple diet caused suffering or discomfort. I felt tired all the time. Nervousness kept me from getting proper rest at night and caused me to want to be alone. I felt just as tired upon arising in the morning as I did when I went to bed. I had no ambition to do anything that required the slightest exertion.

"A friend induced me to try Ten Herbs, and I was surprised at the results your medicine gave me. Indigestion has been relieved, and I am able to eat a greater variety of food and digest same without the pains that I formerly experienced. My nerves have been benefited, and I enjoy the company of other people. My bowels have been regulated. I sleep soundly and in the morning I feel refreshed and fit for work. I have more strength—can work as a painter from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. without having a tired feeling at the close of the day. My complexion has cleared, my skin being free of unsightly blotches and pimples. I am always glad to say a good word for Ten Herbs."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Must Pass Road Bond Issue For Expansion Of State Highway System

Among the fourteen constitutional amendments to be voted upon by the citizens of Pennsylvania on November 6, is one which vitally concerns the expansion of the good roads system in this state

It is amendment number nine, which increases the bonded indebtedness of the state by $50,000,000 for the purpose of building roads. In other words the voters will decide whether or not the state shall issue $50,000,000 worth of bonds for the building of roads.

In the amendment passes it will provide the state highway department with $50,000,000 with which to improve part of the present 5,000 miles of unimproved highways. This construction will go forward within the next five years it is planned.

If the amendment is defeated then the building of roads will have to be done out of license fees, gasoline fees and other methods of taxation. Pennsylvania at the present time has a three cent tax upon gasoline and any further increase in this would undoubtedly be met with stern opposition.

Pennsylvania's per capita bonded indebtedness at the present time is $9.59 which is low compared to other states. Twenty-three states have higher per capita bonded indebtedness, running from $10.38 for the state of Virginia to $86.91 for the state of South Dakota.

In order to provide this $50,000,000 for new roads in Pennsylvania it will be necessary for the voters of Pennsylvania to pass amendment nine on November 6.

Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. She's Collette Francis, of 255 East 25th St., Brooklyn; now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought much about it. What I do is so simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That keeps my hair silky and gleaming, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My scalp was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it, but all of that trouble stopped quickly. And Danderine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often, now."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottles are just 35c at any drug or toilet counter. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl.

Former Mt. Jackson Woman Sentenced

Gets Severe Sentence At Youngstown On Charge Of Burglary

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 3.—The glittering trail of a 22-year-old former school teacher who helped steal to get finery she loved, ended Tuesday in Judge George H. Gessner's court when he sentenced Mrs. Ruth Livermore to a life term in the Women's Reformatory at Maryesville, Ohio.

Mrs. Livermore, former Bessemer, Pa., school teacher entered a plea of guilty to a charge of aiding in the stealing of $7,500 worth of jewels and furs last spring from the home of John M. Mitchell, Raccoon road.

This is the first time in the history of Mahoning county courts that a woman has been sentenced on a charge of robbing an inhabited home at night.

The former school teacher broke into tears after sentence was pronounced by Judge Gessner this morning though she had been quite composed while talking to the judge whom she told that she was badly in need of money and that that was the reason she had aided in the theft.

The loot she admitted was sold and pawned in Pittsburgh and in Cleveland for small fractions of its real value and some of it was later recovered.

Ex-Teacher, Ex-Clerk.

The girl told the judge that she had attended normal school in Pennsylvania and that she had been a former teacher and a former clerk. She had always lived in a small town until she was married to Lester Livermore who having pleaded not guilty to a similar charge is awaiting trial. Livermore at one time worked as caretaker at the Mitchell home.

Judge Gessner said that the offense of entering an inhabited home at night was a serious crime and recalled the "gorilla man scare" which gripped the city several years ago.

Mrs. Livermore has not seen her husband since the time she was arrested early in the summer. She was arrested by county officers while she was seated in an automobile on the North Side late one night and her husband was arrested in Buffalo later in the summer after a battle with Buffalo police.

The girl whose name before her marriage was Ruth Swisher said in an interview that she was born near Mt. Jackson, Pa., and had always lived in a small town until she married Livermore.

Then the couple traveled throughout the country but were unable to find work until Livermore obtained a position at the Mitchell home here.

"I can't see why some persons can have so m uch and why others have nothing' she told a reporter. She said the county authorities knew all the facts in the case before they arrested her and that she did not "squeal" on her husband.

She told all the details of the robbery—of how Livermore entered the home to take the jewelry and furs while she sat in the car with the motor running.

Music Department Makes Harmonious Plea For Bands

Musical Program Well Received At Northside School On Tuesday Evening

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 3.—In an effort to provide more pupils for the orchestras and to interest them in different instruments than those now in use, the music department under the direction of Prof. Paul Winter, gave a program Tuesday evening in the North Side school.

One hundred parents and children were present and the senior orchestra presented the following numbers: "United Liberty March," "Cup Winner," "William Tell Overture" and Shubert Serenade. These numbers were played to show the important uses of various instruments in different pieces of music.

It is claimed that the reason that Ellwood City has never rated high in contesting music battles is that there is a lack of instrumentation. In fact most of the local pupils play the violin, and practically all the same type of violin at that. It takes more than the violin to make up the orchestra, and the local group is badly in need of more students on new instruments.

Another feature of the program was a duet arranged for the violin and trombone, by Fern and Donald Cloak.

Pupils who are interested in learning to play instruments as a part of the school orchestra, are to meet at the North Side school October 15 after school hours.

Streets Level Under Borough Contracting Plan

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 3.—The dirt streets, a few of which still remain in Ellwood City, have been ironed free of bumps during the past six months, under the new construction program which is maintained under the management of the Ellwood City borough.

Since then several streets have been paved, including Park avenue, and West Short street, with others under consideration.

The Story Of Our War With Spain
Filipinos Versus Spaniards, 1896

TWO YEARS PRIOR TO OUR WAR WITH SPAIN, THE NATIVES OF THE PHILIPPINES HAD REVOLTED AGAINST SPANISH RULE. SPAIN HAD RULED WITH A HEAVY HAND IN THE ISLANDS. SPANISH FRIARS POSSESSED VAST TRACTS OF CHOICE LAND UNDER THE CROWN. AND SPANIARDS MONOPOLIZED PUBLIC OFFICES.

THE FILIPINOS UNITED TO SECURE A LARGER MEASURE OF SELF-GOVERNMENT AND, WHEN THEIR DEMANDS WERE DENIED (1896), TOOK UP ARMS AGAINST THEIR OVER-LORDS. THE INSURGENTS QUICKLY MADE THEMSELVES MASTERS OF THE OPEN COUNTRY, AND DROVE THE SPANIARDS INTO THE LARGE, FORTIFIED TOWNS.

A TERRIBLE GUERILLA WAR BEGAN. AMONG THE FILIPINOS THERE SPRANG UP A GRIM BLOOD-BROTHERHOOD, PLEDGED TO EXTERMINATE THE SPANIARDS. EACH MEMBER OF THE SOCIETY VOWED TO KILL AT LEAST ONE SPANIARD EVERY SIX MONTHS.

THE SPANIARDS TRIED HARSH MEASURES IN REPRISAL, AND THOUSANDS OF FILIPINOS SUSPECTED OF BEING MEMBERS OF THE SECRET SOCIETY WERE EXECUTED. BUT THE REVOLT WENT ON. FINALLY THE SPANISH COLONIAL AUTHORITIES RESORTED TO LARGE PROMISES AND BRIBERY, AND THE INSURRECTION CAME TO AN END.

Schenley High To Send Strong Team Here

New Castle Looks For Hardest Game On Card Saturday

Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh Puts Team Through Intensive Training Period

Victory For New Castle Saturday Will Elevate W. P. I. A. L. Position

By "BUGS" WALTHER

New Castle High School football team is looking for the hardest game on the 1928 schedule Saturday at Franklin Field, when they tackle the powerful Schenley High grid team.

The Schenley High team is coming to New Castle this week-end bent on halting the advance of the Bridenbaugh warriors. In Pittsburgh the prowess of the New Castle team is well known. To stop the red and black team is considered a difficult problem. A victory for Schenley High Saturday would elevate them to a high place in the scholastic world. A victory for New Castle would mean another peg on the W. P. I. A. L. championship.

Schenley Is Strong

The recent 52 to 0 defeat handed Fifth Avenue High by Schenley would indicate that the Bellefielders must have something in the way of a potential combination. According to those who witnessed the Fifth Avenue massacre the Schenley High squad tallied almost at will.

Schenley High has three complete teams out for practice every afternoon and it is said that there is very little difference between the first and second teams.

Coach Bridenbaugh sent the New Castle High squad through a stiff workout on Tuesday afternoon. The session consisted of signal drills and a scrimmage of about one hour.

Intensive Training

Nothing will be left undone to have the New Castle team in tip-top shape for the Schenley game. Coach Bridenbaugh has informed the gridders that they face their hardest battle of the year this coming Saturday and has instructed them to bear this in mind each day of practice.

"Toby" Fernati reported back to the squad yesterday afternoon and will likely get in the Schenley game. Fernati was conspicuous with his speed and dash and makes an excellent running mate for McAuley. It is believed that Bridenbaugh intends to alternate these two in the lineup.

DiCarbo Looks Good

"Nickie" DiCarbo is a very much improved gridder this year. DiCarbo is being used as a defensive halfback and so far has the berth cinched. The popular Italian youth was very much in evidence in the Grove City game, and his work in running interference and backing up the line was gilt edged.

Ralph "Red" McAuley the newcomer from Cleveland who made his debut in a very satisfactory manner in the Grove City game was in the scrimmage last night up to his ears. McAuley likes football and shows it by his willingness to learn every detail of the game. McAuley ripped off several fine gains against the reserves yesterday. Harper and Sillman also were prominent factors in the drubbing handed the reserve team.

The work of the New Castle linemen this year is a big factor in the success of the team. Mooney, Ciccone and Alexander made life miserable for the second team. The reserves found it hard to gain ground around the ends guarded by Ostrosky and Craft. Cuba and Howley combined to present a cement wall to the reserves.

Allegheny Sending Delegation To Game

Coming To New Wilmington On Saturday At Least Six Hundred Strong

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 3.—Graduate Manager S. S. Townsend of Allegheny College yesterday morning phoned in an order for 600 tickets for the Allegheny-Westminster football game, to be played here next Saturday. These tickets are for Meadville rooters, including most of the student body of the Methodist school.

After the showing of the revamped Allegheny team in the opening game Saturday, when they trounced Mt. Union by a 32-0 score, all Meadville plans to trek here this week-end to see a similar sight at the expense of Coach "Dike" Beede's Westminster crew.

That Allegheny will bring a big squad of heavyweights is certain. Those who saw the Methodists in action last Saturday claim that Merritt has a team as big as that of Carnegie Tech, although the squad statistics as printed on the program claim that the six-footers weigh but 168 or 170 pounds. At any rate, Westminster will again be outweighed from 15 to 20 pounds per man on the line.

Schenley High To Bring Band Here For Grid Battle

Uniformed Schenley High Band To Accompany Football Team Here

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner today received word from Schenley High in Pittsburgh that they are contemplating sending their uniformed band of 35 pieces to New Castle on Saturday for the football game.

New Castle High will meet Schenley High on the gridiron and the New Castle High band will try to out-band the visitors. A real lively time is promised at Franklin field Saturday, with two first-class high school bands on hand.

The Schenley band is one of the finest in the Pittsburgh district. The band is not new to New Castle, as the Pittsburghers brought their band here in 1926 for the grid game in which Schenley defeated New Castle, 6 to 2.

It is probable that if the Schenley band reaches New Castle in time the bands of both schools will parade the downtown streets.

It is understood by Gardner that plans are under way at Schenley to charter a special train for the New Castle game. Many hundreds of Pittsburgh students and fans will no doubt make the trip here. A section of the bleachers will be reserved for the Schenley delegation.

Wallace Leads College Cross Country Tryout

Westminster Harriers Priming For Meet Saturday With Allegheny

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 3.—Robert Wallace, star distance ace on the Westminster cross-country team, led the entire field of competitors last evening in the tryout races over the five and three-quarter mile Fayette course. Wallace's time for the grind was 35 minutes and 30 seconds.

These tryouts held last night to determine the team which will oppose the Allegheny harriers here Saturday as a preliminary to the Allegheny-Westminster grid game, brought to light two freshman stars who may bolster Westminster's chances for another conference championship distance team.

The two first-year men who finished among the first eight were Rodgers Free of Philadelphia and David Findley of Ben Avon. Both showed excellent form considering the fact that they have had but two weeks of training.

The men finished in the following order: Wallace, Coraopolis, first; Captain King, Cooperstown, second; Anderson, Mars, third; Perrine, Jackson Center, fourth; Ellis, Jamestown, fifth; E. Myers, Sharon, sixth; Free, Philadelphia, seventh, and Findlay Ben Avon, eighth.

Geneva-Bucknell Clash Saturday At Beaver Falls

Coach Flenniken Looks For Tough Battle With Eastern Team

BEAVER FALLS, Oct. 3.—Geneva's football men are realizing what intensive football drill is this week. Coach Flenniken is telling the Covenanters they have no reason to be elated over the trouncing given Adrian Saturday. The Michigan team did not "show a thing" and the score should have been larger.

The coaches are not optimistic over the outcome of the game next Saturday with Bucknell. The Bisons are known to be stronger than last year, and the best team Geneva ever had was pressed to hold them to a scoreless tie. However, a battle-royal is in prospect and the best football game in the district is on top in Beaver Falls next Saturday.

Several of Geneva's regulars who were unable to play against Adrian will return to the line-up for the Bucknell game. Captain Paul Booth will be ready to assume his duties on the line and Ransom will be available as a sub-center. Harry Haude, veteran guard, is also in shape again. It is a question if Ewing, backfield star, will be available. The coaches were much pleased with the work of Richards in the backfield, and Ralston and Turpin on the line, all new men. They have "taken" to the McMillin football in fine style.

INNOCENT CONVICTS PAID

Oscar Slater, who became world famous when he was freed from prison and given $30,000 compensation by the British government for wrongful conviction on the charge of murder, was not the first to be compensated for serving a sentence for a crime not committed. A number of cases have been recorded in the last 50 years. One notable case was that of Adolphe Beck, a Norwegian, who received pardon and $25,000. He had been convicted twice for frauds on women and had served seven years.

Union High Points For Sewickley Game

Will Meet New Castle Trade School At Union On October 12

Coach L. H. Burnham has opened his practice drills for the Union high school grid squad which will oppose Sewickley high eleven at that city on next Friday afternoon.

Practice sessions began Monday afternoon when but a few of the regulars appeared for work. But of those that did, Burnham drilled them for some time, giving them an overdose of tackling practice. This he believes is where the Union fellows are weak. "the team's offensive playing is improving" said the coach, "but they're terribly weak in tackling." He intends to remedy this however through practice sessions this week.

The Sewickley boys are rated well this season and are not considered anything but a hard game for the Union squad. The tutor has given his men instructions to be on hand for every practice session this week. Last night the Manoningtown Junior high team furnished opposition for the Union team in a practice tilt on the latter's field.

One week from Friday, or the afternoon of October 12, the Union gridders will contest the New Castle Trade school footballers on Union's field in one of the most important games of this season's schedule.

Palmer Looks Good

PALMER, HALF

In Fred Palmer, nephew of A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney general, Westminster has a freshman back who looks like varsity stuff. Palmer, who weighs but 154 pounds, intercepted a forward pass in the Tech game Saturday, raced 27 yards and all but made a touchdown for the United Presbyterians. The score made a minute later was the result of his run. Palmer is a fast and shifty runner who may make things interesting for Allegheny at New Wilmington next Saturday.

Westminster Team Crippled Badly For Encounter Saturday

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINTON, Pa., Oct. 3.—Coach "Dyke" Beede's battered and bruised football team has been spending but a few minutes each day in light signal practice since the Carnegie Tech encounter last Saturday.

A number of the regulars are not in the line-up due to injuries, and it may be that Beede will have to use some freshmen substitutes in Saturday's game here with the strong Allegheny team.

Those who saw the Methodists in action last Saturday claim that Allegheny has a team with a line averaging 197 pounds and a set of heavy backs who weigh more than 180. In fact, many fans claim that the Meadville outfit looks as big as the touted Carnegie Tech machine.

All of which would indicate that Beede's light crew will be in for another body-bruising tilt next Saturday. The Westminster mentor plans to start whatever men are able to play, but the best he can do is to get a line weighing nearly 170 pounds, with four backs averaging 160.

Last year Allegheny and Westminster battled to a scoreless tie at Meadville, but the Methodists plan to make up for this on Saturday by running up a big score on the U. P. outfit.

Services Held For Late Gridder, Dies From His Injuries

Campus Services Held Today For Leo Goodreau At Villa Nova College

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Campus services will be held for Leo Goodreau Villa Nova football star who died yesterday in Bryn Mawr hospital of a broken neck sustained in football practice it was announced today.

Goodreau's mother, sister and three brothers were with him when the end came. He was one of the most promising of this season's players and until the end he believed he had a broken collar bone and would be back in the line-up shortly.

The body will be taken to Harrisburg, Pa., for interment.

"Dukes" To Play St. Thomas Team

Duquesne Eleven Faces Stiff Game At Scranton On Saturday

Duquesne University, of Pittsburgh, faces what is considered by many to be the toughest game on its schedule when it takes on the powerful St. Thomas eleven of Scranton, at Scranton. The Scrantonians are all big, fast men and have a number of clever plays. Their feat of nearly beating Temple and losing 12-6 through breaks, has created an alarm in the Duke camp.

Little was known of the St. Thomas team by the Dukes until this, other than that they were coached by Spike Harding, former University of Pittsburgh quarterback. Spike was known to have a clever team, but nothing like what he was looked forward to have.

Elmer Layden rates his next Saturday's tussle as being quite as hard as any other on his schedule, not excepting W. & J. He says that the Dukes only hope for victory lies in clever shifts and tricky formations, and he will open up with everything that he has in order to win.

Little of a line was obtainable on the Dukes by reason of their game against Slippery Rock in gathering in their 9-0 victory, they purposely refrained from any kind of trick or startling foot-ball, and their followers are still in doubt as to their real powers. Everyone is agreeing that if they take the Scranton outfit into camp the rest of their schedule will take care of itself, with the exception of W. & J.

Homer Smith To Box Frankie Wine

Troupe of Ten Heavyweights Carded For Bowl Here Monday Night

WINE RECENTLY FOUGHT STRIBLING

One ton of heavyweights, otherwise Billy Jolly's troupe of mastodonic fighting humans will feature the Jolly Bowl Monday night and in the role of principals will be none other than Frankie Wine, African light-heavyweight and Homer Smith of Kalamazoo. It will be the first time that a troupe of heavyweights has appeared in this city and fans who have craved for the heavy boys will see in action.

Recently Wine fought Willie Stribling at Grand Rapids, Mich., and while Stribling took the decision the fans did not like it and the award met with the well known raspberry. Stribling was forced to hold on during the last three rounds and Wine deserved the victory which shows he can fight otherwise the Georgian would not have been forced to play the role of a wrestler.

Fought Them All.

Homer Smith has fought Jack Dempsey, Jack Sharkey, Robert Roberto, Jack Gross, Battling Levinsky, Chuck Wiggins, Martin Burke, Johnny Risko, Paulino the Woodchopper, Jack De Mave, Big Boy Peterson, Jack Renault and Bud Gorman.

Of the list Robert Roberti, Wiggins, De Mave and Big Boy Peterson are of the latter day class of heavyweights and it looks as though Wine and Smith, being mated evenly will give the fans plenty of action. Smith may not be as spry as formerly but with Wine ought to provide plenty for $1.50 and $1.

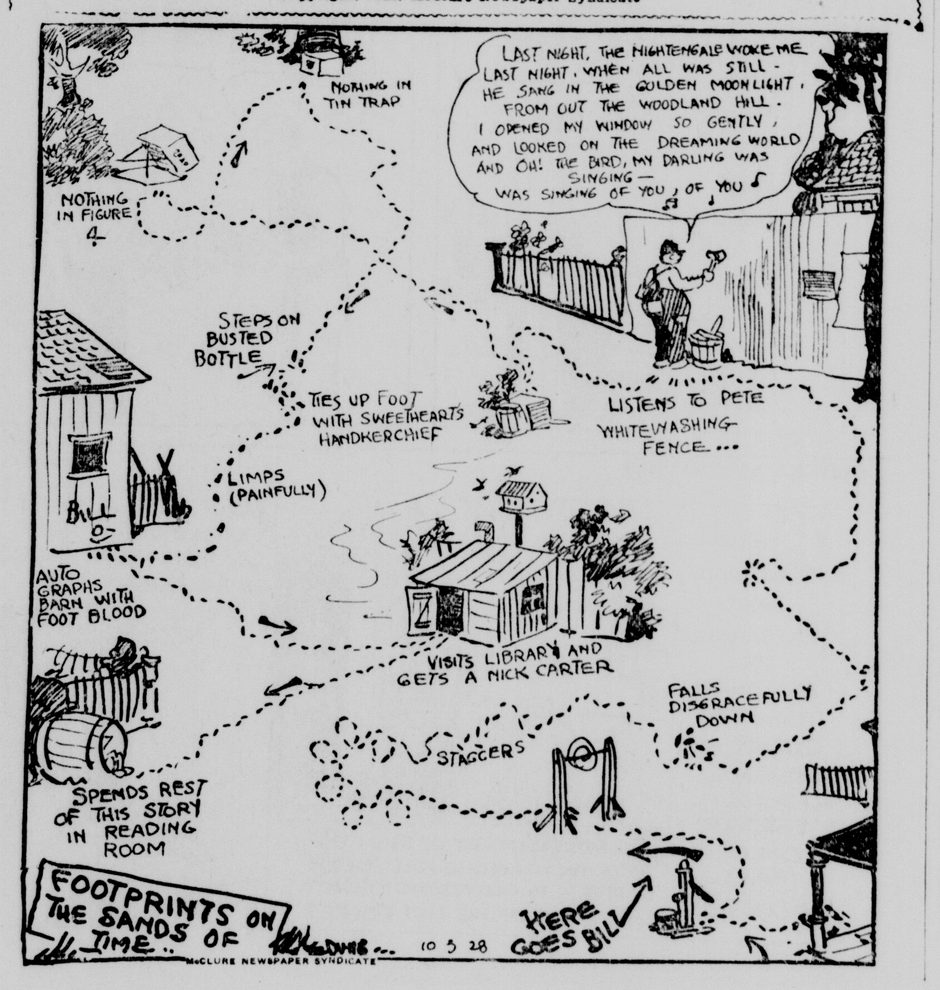

There will be four other heavyweights on the card and when heavyweights enter a ring there generally are knockouts.

The fans have been clamoring for heavyweights according to Jolly and in order to acquiesce to their desires has inveigled the heavyweight brigade to strut in the wooden saucer.

Charles Schwab says "no one can help being optimistic in this world of change." Of course, Charley, if you have enough of it.—The Kalamazoo Gazette.

It seems strange to hear of a taxicab war in Chicago with no innocent bystanders killed.—Paducah, Ky., Evening Sun.

Cards-Yanks Ready To Start Series In New York Thursday

Cardinals Appear To Have Edge On Gothamites In Coming Classic

Waite Hoyt And Sherdel Announced As Likely Starting Pitchers

Editor's Note: This is the third and last of a series of articles by Davis J. Walsh, dealing with the respective merits of the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals who will meet in the 1928 World Series starting tomorrow.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Many of the boys, myself among them, have been so busy telling why the St. Louis Cardinals should win the World Series, starting tomorrow, that they haven't had time for mature consideration of the several and devious ways in which this ball club can lose without having to get downright versatile about it. Indications, I admit point the finger at a probable St. Louis victory. The Cards have three of those high-test pitchers who can pet 20 miles to the gallon. One of them, in fact, not only will go 20 miles to the gallon but also for it. The total of Yankee pitchers, who can pitch you a ball game upon demand, is understood to be approximately one.

Yankees Crippled.

The Cards have exactly no injuries, the Yanks so may as to cause some very ugly whispers in connection with the second battle of arras. Almost everything, in fact, seems to say that the Cards are due and even some of the local handicappers naturally biased, are picking them to win before the seventh game.

For my part I think the Yankees might be a fair bet at the prevailing odds which are presumed to be 7 to 5 on the Cards. Even money and the Cards are a stand-out. Lay $7 upon the old take-off and possibly you can have my five—almost directly after you win it. If John Bananas next door wants to give you odds, take them and maybe you will take him. The Yanks have a reasonable chance—at the odds.

In fast, I don't see how you can say much less about a club that will have a couple of hammer throwers like Ruth and Gehrig in there swinging for them every day. Those kind of guys don't even care whether they hit one off a good pitcher. And we happen to be dealing with one of the most uncertain of speculations a few ball games and what may happen to them; also in them.

Cards Look Best.

You can go ahead and concede everything excepting hitting, to the Cardinals. Give them infield defense, give them superior catching, grant them the better pitching. The latter is extremely important in a short series of any kind for that matter. But there is one factor of equal importance and I am talking now about the breaks. They are one thing you can't concede the Cardinals in advance.

Perhaps the fact that the writer sees no sense in odds on a short series has prompted him to argue matters from the wrong side of the fence. It is admitted that the Cards look the part of the better ball club. They should win on form, but the law that will compel them to do so is still in committee or something. I, therefore, will proceed to argue them down, largely because their chances most certainly do not deserve all the attention they are getting.

Just Mediocre Teams

First of all, neither of the contenders, as they stand, are great ball clubs and even the great ones can go wrong. The Cards undoubtedly are the best club in the National League over a full season or they wouldn't have won the pennant. I doubt if they are as sound a world series bet as the Giants might have been. Their record through the season supports this contention, a record that shows the Cards to be steady and consistent but not a big series club. Their strongest contention, of course, came from the Giants, Cubs, Reds and Pirates. Against the first three, they won twenty-nine and lost thirty-seven, a nice second division average if the league schedule went no further. They won a lot of games from the Pirates, mostly when the latter were shot full of ventilators, but actually they won the pennant because they could beat the three comics, the Dodgers, Braves and Phillies, from whom they won fifty-one games out of a possible sixty-six, in brief, fifty per cent of their victories for the year were gained in minor series.

Nothing Comic

There will be nothing comic about the Yanks even in their current condition. They seem to have mastered the matter of playing a maximum amount of baseball in the big moments, as evidenced by their three out of four from the Athletics when they, the Yanks, were pretty much of a six and seven-eights ball club. The Browns were the only American League entry to make the season's series close, winning ten from the Yanks and losing twelve.

It, consequently, is possible that the Cards won't succeed in doing 100 per cent of the things that misleading statistics say they should do. These statistics even go all the way back to the 1926 series, for some reason, in order to prove their point. The writer is satisfied to stick with the present, for these are not the same ball clubs that played each other two years ago. In addition to those who have departed, Alexander and Haines aren't quite the pitchers they were then. Sherdel seems to be just as good and he figures to get better breaks this time. But let us not lose sight of the fact that it was Alexander and Haines who supplied the four victories that won the series in question.

Depends On Pitching

This time, the burden of proof will be shifted to Sherdel, which means that, if he doesn't win the first game, the Cards will be in something of a jam. Of course, the same thing applies to the Yanks in connection with the possible defeat of Hoyt in the opening game. However, he ought to win at least one game and he might make it two, thanks to the rest he will get between starts on those all-day rides between the two cities. It wouldn't surprise me greatly, either if Pipgras, refreshed from a full week's rest, got away with a victory. That would make it close enough for my 7 to 5 money.

Yes, of course the Yanks are in a bad way the keyman of the pitching staff, Pennock, and the key-man of the outfield defense, Combs, out of action; also the key-man of the infield, Lazzeri, unable to pivot on double plays and balls hit over second bearers is premature.

The Yanks are a fair enough bet—at the odds.

PUNTS AND PASSES

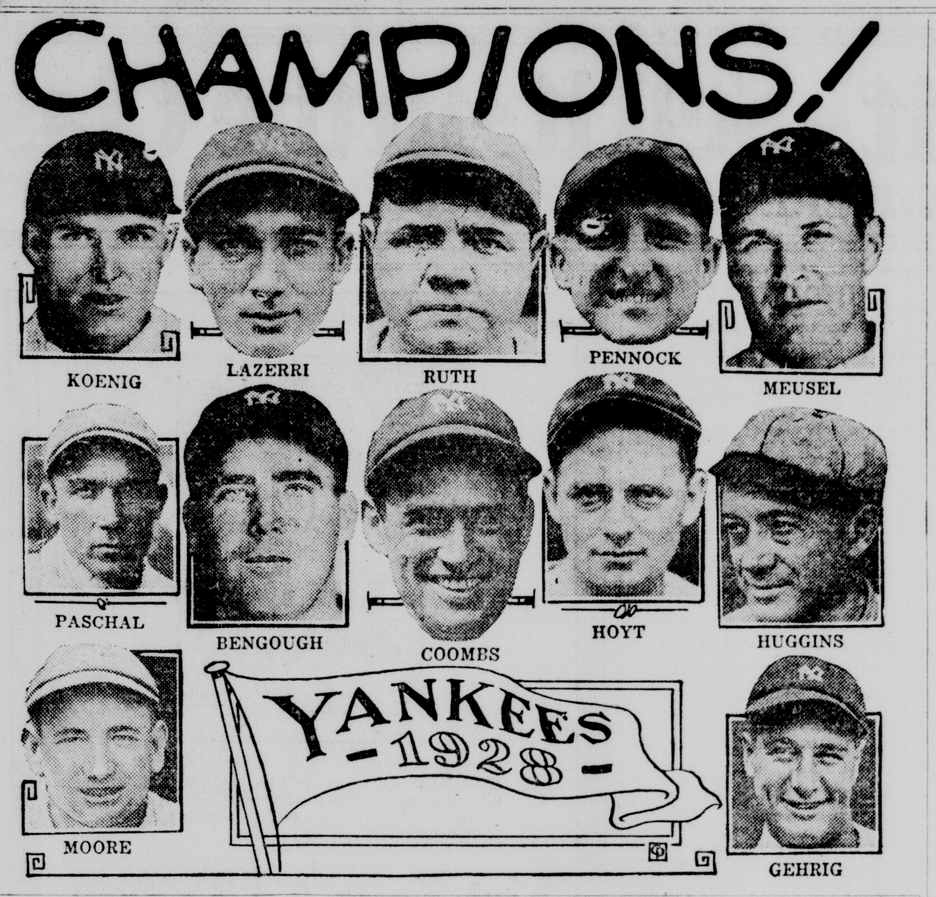

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3—Dick Gentile, of Brookline, Mass., Penn backfield star whose right knee was injured in yesterday's practice will be out for at least three weeks. Carrol Rosenbloom, of Baltimore, is taking his place.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 3—Twenty-seven players will be carried on the Colgate squad which starts south tonight for the intersectional game with Vanderbilt. This is Colgate's first invasion of the far south in more than ten years.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 3.—Spike Collins, shifty ball carrier who captained the Penn State Frosh last year, has replaced Wolff on the varsity.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Fifteen hundred Southern Methodist rooters are making the 1800-mile trip from Dallas, Texas, to root for the Mustangs in their game with the Army here Saturday. Indications are that Carlmark will fill one of the end berths for Army.

Believe Ashland Will Give Tech Stiff Struggle

Ashland, Ohio, Eleven To Invade Pittsburgh Bent On Big Victory

PITTSBURGH, Pa., October 3.—Flushed with its clean-cut victory over Wooster college, the Ashland college eleven of Ashland, O., will invade the Carnegie Tech stronghold next Saturday with the announced intention of handing the Tartans an unpleasant surprise. Ashland, a newcomer on the Skibo schedule, was originally listed as one of the "warm-up" games but indications are now that the Steffen-coached boys are due to receive much more than they bargained for.

Fred C. Schmuck, Ashland alumnus and coach of the team has instilled the idea in the minds of his players that Carnegie Tech can be beaten. Ashland has a reputation, recently, at least, of upsetting the dope against teams that were supposedly stronger. As a result of this reputation Ashland it is rumored, is having a hard time lately to schedule games with teams that heretofore found the Schmuck other year was shown last Saturday when Woster fell before the Ashland menace in a game that was scheduled as a "warm-up" for Wooster.

Stiff Workouts.

It needed no formal announcement team easy picking. That this is anfrom Coaches Steffen and Waddell to confirm the fact after the Carnegie-Westminster game last Saturday that this week will include some unpleasant workouts for the Tartan football candidates. Although the Skibos managed to salt the game away with a 32 to 6 score the play of the victors was disappointing in many respects. Lack of experience was flagrantly noticeable in several instances during the play. This was to be expected since seven of the starting players were sophomores, but if Carnegie is to justify its claim that it has the best material in its history a whole lot of improvement is necessary before the Kilties are ready to take on such opponents as W. and J., Pitt, Georgetown, Notre Dame and New York University.

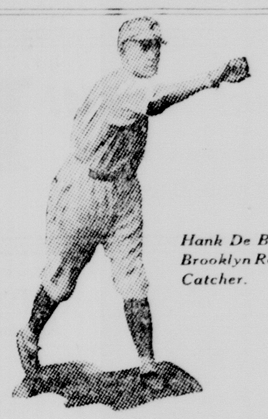

There was too much loose handling of the ball by some of the more experienced players and it is certain that this weakness will receive due attention during the current week. The coaches also discerned some weak spots in the line and on this account the line-up against Ashland next Saturday will probably include several new faces.

On the other hand Coaches Steffen and Waddell saw several things over which to be jubilant. Outstanding among these was the line plunging of John Karcis sophomore fullback, who justified the advance reports that he is one of the most powerful line crackers in these parts. Glen Moorhead also gladdened the hearts of the Carnegie rooters by his brilliant end sweeps and his open field dashes. Howard Eyth who is Moorhead's only competitor for the running halfback position went out of the game with a leg injury on about the fifth play and thus lost his chance to show the ability with which he is credited. The defensive work of John Dreshar at center and the all-around work of Latham Flanagan at one of the terminals, were redeeming features of the more or less sloppy playing of the Tartans in their lid opener.

Bethany Gridders Prepare For Pitt

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 3.—Bethany' gridders started yesterday to prepare for the Pitt Panther to be met on Saturday in the Pitt stadium.

The 24-0 defeat at the hands of W. and J. upset what was expected to be one of the most successful seasons the Bisons could boast of in recent years. After a hard fight to a scoreless tie in the first half Bethany seemed to lose all its punch in the second frame and the Presidents had little trouble in shoving four counters across the goal line. The Green and White was toted to be one of the best to be sent to W. and J. and the first half looked good for Bethany but the Keermen came through with an attack that could not be checked. The Red and Black marked up 25 first downs against Bethany's forward wall.

"Baseball causes more nerve strain than most people think. That's where Mail Pouch fits in so well. I find that a pinch of Mail Pouch is soothing to my nerves, steadies my work behind the bat, and is the most satisfying chew I know of. I can recommend Mail Pouch to any worker who is under severe nervous strain."

A NEW PACKARD TRIUMPH

The Packard Standard Eight Club Sedan

-the long awaited STANDARD EIGHT

EVERYTHING that was expected and more is found in Packard's newest achievement, the Packard Standard Eight.

All of the characteristic grace and distinction of Packard lines are retained, for Packard beauty is established—and it is not the Packard policy to depreciate cars in the hands of owners by radical and needless changes in design.

The new Standard Eight powerplant, with its nine-bearing crankshaft, is a marvel of clean-cut and compact simplicity, with a surprisingly low operating and maintenance cost.

And the Packard Standard Eight provides, as does the Custom line, the new and exclusive Packard Shock Absorbing System, a unique combination of inventions which are almost magical in their effects.

Today's Packard cars are literally, and without qualification, the easiest riding cars in the world—as well as the safest.

We want you to drive the new Standard Eight—experience for yourself its superb performance and unequaled comfort, the luxury of its deep new cushions and the beauty of its appointments. We know you will then be satisfied with nothing less than a Packard.

We will appraise your present car fairly—and we offer a convenient monthly payment plan. When may we serve you? A phone call will bring one of the new Standard Eight cars to your door.

"Big Mike" — By Fcg Murray

One of the great polo players of the day, yet scarcely, if ever, receiving any publicity, is Malcolm Stevenson of the United States team, which is now engaging the Argentine four in a two out of three series for the "Championship of the Americas." "Big Mike," as he is called, is now in his forty-second year, and, like Grover Alexander, still seems about as effective as ever. Playing the difficult number three position, as he does, Stevenson never grabs the limelight as does Hitchcock, or Guest, but nevertheless he is just as vital a cog in the North American Machine.

"Big "Mike's" part in the play is not to bother so much about scoring goals, but to "clean the adversaries out of the bushes," so to speak. He opens the way for Hitchcock as much as possible—for the whole United States plan of attack is to get "Tommy the Torch" loose—and protects Guest and Sanford whenever he can. He can score though, of course, and hits the ball cleanly and accurately, as his goal against the British Army-in-India team proved.

Malcolm Stevenson was born in 1887, and started his polo career at the age of nineteen, and in 1907 became an active member of the Meadow Brook Club. He was a member of seven senior and four open championship teams. He played No. 3 against Great Britain in 1924, but was injured in the eighth chukker of the first match and had to remain out of the second contest. In 1927, he played through both matches against the English team, although painfully hurt in the knee in the seventh period of the second game. His very brainy and effective play in that series earned him much praise, for he was the main factor in the American defense, and never seemed to be out of position. He is rated at ten goals.

Idea for funny drawing—yes, very. Catcher, hit on mask by foul tip, throws mask away and reaches into pocket for new one, which he puts on.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—Nervousness over the $462,000,000 speculative loan increase in September, as reported in the stock exchange figures, and unfavorable comments on the stock speculation orgy by the bankers at Philadelphia caused heavy selling of the industrials at the beginning of trading today.

Prices of the speculative leaders were swept backward ¼ points at the opening. General Motors yielding 3½ on a 15,000 share block and Chrysler dropping 4¼ points on the first sale. The fast-moving industrials and specialties were offered at concessions from Tuesday's closing prices.

However, offerings of stocks at the lower prices were quickly snapped up, and prompt rallies brought about in the market leaders. Most sections of the market rallied from the low opening levels.

Murray Body Corporation staged a spectacular advance of 6 points to 111, on announcement that new stock would be offered to shareholders at $15 a share. The stock has come up from a low of 21⅛ since the early part of the year, a rise of 400 per cent in that period. Briggs, Lambert and other speculative leaders rebounded few points from the low opening prices, and recovered most of the lost ground. General Motors, American Can and U S Steel rallied and regained about half of the opening losses before the end of the first hour.

Revival Services At Nazarene Church

Rev. L. S. Mershimer, former pastor of Sligo, Pa., who is assisting in special evangelistic services at the Nazarene Taberhacle delivered an able sermon on 'Amazing Grace" at the meeting Tuesday evening.

Rev. Mershimer took his text from Acts 4:33-34. He said that grace changes our relationship to God. Grace will change one from an orphan of God to a son of God. It will also change our relation to Christ making Him a brother. Christ is not an historical Christ the speaker said but is a reality.

Rev. Mershimer will preach this evening on a timely theme. Mrs. Margaret Jacobs and Mrs. Goldie Robinson will sing a duet. On Thursday evening there will be special music by a quartet from the People's Mission. Friday evening a quartet from Sebring, O. On Sunday evening a men's quartet from the Nazarene church of this city will sing. Prayer meeting every evening at 6 o'clock.

Rev. Mershimer was born and raised at Princeton and was a former member of the Princeton Presbyterian church.

Declares Blondes Get First Place

Also Are Better Looking, Is Verdict Of Eddie Cantor To Chicagoan

PICTURE POSTCARDS ARE STILL POPULAR

By IONE QUINBY
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Here is a list of queries and answers regarding the big city:

Why are the majority of chorus girls blondes? Ziegfeld answered this one the other day when I discovered him sitting in a big easy chair in Eddie Cantor's apartment.

"There are more passably good looking blondes in the world than brunettes," he said. "Also, blondes as a rule have better looking legs, which helps if the face gets a low mark in pulchritude." As a sop to the brunettes he said there has never been a blonde as lovely as the most beautiful brunette. The trouble is you don't run on to 'em often! He didn't comment on the red heads. His wife is one!

What is the Chicago home of Ganna Walska and Harold McCormick like? It is the most conservative house on the most conservative street in Chicago—victorian Rush street. It has none of the up-to-date flare of Ganna of the exotic perfumes and daring gowns, but it is where she will park her trunks when she gets her $2,500,000 worth of Parisian gowns and jewels out of the custom officers' hands and comes to Chicago.

The house itself is a square, old-fashioned brick residence with a mid-victorian staircase running down to the hall, dark woodwork and a formal front yard surrounded by an iron fence. It is a stone's throw from the more pretentious stone mansion of Harold's first wife, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, located on Lake Shore drive.

Are picture post cards still sent by folks visiting the big city? Arthur C. Lueder, Chicago postmaster, says there has been no decrease in the popular sport of mailing post cards back home. Hundreds of thousands per annum is the average. Post cards with hotel views are the most popular, although other views of Chicago are sent by the thousands. One man not long ago (hailing from Idaho) sent a picture of the Lincoln park zoo, among several others, and evidently mixed his cards. He wrote on the back: "Am having a fine time. 'X' marks my room in this swell hotel." On the other side was the picture of the monkey house.

Chicago girls are wearing the faces of their favorite presidential candidates in the rosettes of their garters. With short skirts still in vogue, it is easy to make one of these pre-election canvasses. To those who don't care for buttons on their garters there are glass steins, instead, with realistic-looking foam on top, silver and gold donkeys or elephants to attach to the garter.

"Pleasure Man" Tamed Somewhat, Show Takes Loss

Play In New York Termed Indecent Takes Big Financial Loss Second Night

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Mayor Walker's campaign to rid Broadway of salacious plays marked time today while "Pleasure Man", which was raided at its premiere on Monday night, continued to play—to a house two-thirds empty.

The mayor's clean-up campaign was temporarily checked last night when Mae West, the blonde actress who wrote "Pleasure Man", obtained an injunction in supreme court restraining him from interfering with performances of the production. But the actress-producer, victorious in the courts, suffered a financial setback last night when the theatre was only one-third filled. It had been jammed Monday night.

Police officials who witnessed last night's performance said today the play had been "tamed" considerably. The same officials characterized the first night's performance as the "rawest ever".

The temporary injunction is returnable on Friday morning.

Meanwhile members of the cast and orchestra, all of whom were taken to a police station on Monday night, asserted that the police had "herded them into patrol wagons like cattle."

The players, who were freed on bail after being haled to court yesterday morning, will be given a hearing tomorrow afternoon.

Coal dealers are reported to be unanimous in the opinion that this is one of the most glorious autumns on record.—The Hamilton, Ont., Spectator.

Salts Fine For Aching Kidneys

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys As You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Zoning Board Refuses Appeal

Permit Issued For Brown's Garage Stands; Complaint Is Heard

At the conclusion of the hearing befor the monthly session of the board of zoning appeals Tuesday afternoon in the city council chamber, that board sustained the city engineer in the granting the permit to W. J. Brown, 811 North Mercer street, corner Moody avenue, to erect a garage on his property, and setting aside the appeal of V. H. Beahm, 12 East Moody avenue, who sought to have the permit revoked and a change in the location of the garage relative to his lot made.

Both interested parties were present at the hearing and the discussion became quite spirited at times. It was shown by Mr. Brown that he had complied with every zoning regulation of the district in the erection of the garage.

He had constructed it to the rear of his home and eighty feet from the front building line, while the ordinance requires but sixty feet back from the front line. On the Moody avenue side of the street, the garage had also been erected in line with his home. In addition to this, he could have erected a two stall garage as easily as a one stall garage.

V. H. Beahm, whose property faces on Moody avenue and immediately in the rear of the Brown property, claimed that the manner in which the garage is constructed obstructed his view and damaged his property. The board thought otherwise, especially in view of the fact that Mr. Brown had complied with every zoning regulation of the zoning ordinance, and rendered its decision accordingly.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Now all this talk the past few days about intelligence tests wasn't just for the purpose of writing words. It was sort of preparatory to the actual taking of the test and last night was the night. Now never mind what the score was, you're not interested, but in the taking of the test most everyone would be interested.

It's an odd sort of examination. At times the questions seem awfully simple, and at times they seem simply awful. It taxes one's ability to remember, to describe and to define. Determines the reaction period, measures one's mental agility, and places the candidate somewhat between an idiot and a genius.

The gentleman who gives the tests in the New Castle schools, Elmer O. Delancey, seems to know what it's all about and somehow after taking the examination one feels that he knows too much about a fellow's inner self. Much as a goldfish feels, no doubt, as you stand at the bowl and watch him feeding.

The answer you make is your I. Q., and according to Mr. Delancey, your I. Q. is much like your finger prints, it never changes. If you have an I. Q. of 70 or 170 at four years of age, you will likely have the same score at 40 or 60. It seems that everyone gets an I. Q. handed them on the day they make their earthly debut, and unlike silk shirts or bedroom slippers, it can't be exchanged for something a little different.

Pigeons are like humans, they go where the food is best. And N. A. Smith, the nature loving garage man back of The News, has a carrier pigeon with him that doesn't belong here, but just won't leave. The bird checked in Tuesday morning with the following leg band marking: A. U.-28-SH-1178. The 28 is not in line with the other figures but runs at right angles from the line. Smitty turned the bird loose after feeding time but it is still sticking around, satisfied, apparently, with the quality of food put out in Sycamore way.

Today may be just an ordinary sort of day for you, but it's a red letter day for Forgy Knowles, custodian of the Legion Home, and his wife. Forgy is taking the good lady of his house down to Key West, Fla., and from there over to Cuba, where the reunion of the Spanish-American War Veterans will be held.

The last time Forgy was south was in the uniform of Uncle Sam. This time he allows that there will be no embalmed beef or typhoid fever. He's going down for a good time and will likely get it.

A young lady in Pittsburgh, 23 years of age, wants a husband, and doesn't care if he hasn't anything but the clothes on his back. She doesn't care if he is cock-eyed and has a wooden leg, just so he is a genius and has advanced political opinions.

Candidates will form on the right. After taking a look at her picture, the chap at the rear of the line can step up and have my place.
